POLICE INVESTIGATES GIRL'S CONFESSION

1,000 CANADIANS CAPTURED AT YPRES

KAISER RUSHES TO FLANDERS

BERLIN, April 26.—The German official war report today denies that Lizerne was retaken by the allies, and says that the Germans have taken 5,000 prisoners, including 1,000 Canadians, in the Flanders fighting.

LONDON, April 26.—The great battle of Ypres, regarded here as the supreme effort of the Germans to pierce the allies' lines and smash a way to the coast, continues upon a terrific scale, according to today's dispatches from the Continent.

With the German attack penetrating the allies' salient to within three miles of Ypres, great masses of reinforcements are being rushed by both sides to the battle line.

The Germans today violently bombarded Ypres.

The Kaiser himself, according to a Berlin dispatch, via Amsterdam, is rushing to the scene of combat to personally direct the operations of his armies.

Paris claims that the German offensive, after its first impetuous sweep had taken several towns to the north of Ypres, has been definitely checked.

Repulse of two German attacks northeast of Ypres is announced by the French War Office today. The Germans were debouching Passchendaele and Brodseinde when driven back by the British. Passchendale is more than eight miles northeast of Ypres.

Enormous losses have been suffered by both sides in this battle which is the most sanguinary since the costly British victory of Neuve Chappelle.

"Whole regiments of German trops have been destroyed in the fu-

Germans Blew Up Cruiser Navarra

By International News Service.

BERLIN (via Amsterdam), April 26.—The Admiralty announced today that the German auxiliary cruiser Navarra was blown up on February 11, by her captain, to prevent its capture by the British.

The Navarra was a vessel of 5,794 tons, owned by the Hamburg-American line.

7,000 Christians Are Slain in Kurd Massacre

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PETROGRAD, April 26—Seven thousand Christian Armenians killed, 3,000 wounded, more than 15,000 fugitives or prisoners, twelve towns destroyed, more than 5000 square miles of territory laid waste.

This brief summarizes another bloody page of Turkish history as revealed in reports transmitted to Petrograd from Tiflis, Tabriz and Teheran. The reports as received here were necessarily fragmentary in character, but they have been checked over carefully.

THOUSANDS TORTURED

As furnished today by an official of the government they cover a period from early in January to late in March and atrocities committed in Turkish, Russian and Persian territory.

Kurd tribesmen now fighting with the Turkish army were responsible for the massacres in large part, but the Turkish regulars permitted the slaughter of men, women and children and in some instances took an active part in the butchery.

Horrible tortures were inflicted upon thousands of the Kurds' victims. Mothers begging for the lives of their children were crucified before the eyes of the little ones. Oil was poured over men and women and then set afire. Some of the methods used by the Kurds cannot be described. Turkish troops and Turkish officials are declared to have looked on while the Kurds worked their will, sometimes crying applause or telling where more fugitives might be found.

Ohio Valley Has Record April Heat

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Hot weather records for April were broken in the Middle Atlantic States and the Ohio Valley by the present hot wave, the United States Weather Bureau today announced.

The hottest April weather in forty years prevails in the Ohio Valley, while the Middle Atlantic States are experiencing the greatest April heat since 1896. At least two more days of sweltering heat was forecasted by the bureau.

ROOSEVELT SECRETS REVEALED

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 26.—The great antipathy of William Barnes to Charles E. Hughes, and the fact that Theodore Roosevelt was not strong for Hughes in 1908, but knew no stronger man to nominate for Governor, was brought out today when the Barnes-Roosevelt $50,000 libel trial was resumed.

Roosevelt wrote to Barnes and to Herbert Parson that "there are many currents against Hughes, but I do not see where you're going to put in his place one who will not be weaker."

The first letter from Barnes to Roosevelt in the Summer of 1908 read:

> I have talked with Parsons and others. There is no retreat for me in this matter. I have burned my bridges behind me. About Hughes the working people are not behind Bryan. If Hughes is elected he will set up a political machine. Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Taft will not have to stay in New York, but I and others will.
>
> Those of us who have made the fight of the last two years will be crushed, forced to sneak in at the back door or driven out of politics.
>
> There is no particular reason why you should care. There is no trouble about Taft, but for Heaven's sake do not throw New York into the hands of the Mugwumps.
>
> You once said you once asked your friends to cut their throats for you, but you would not do it again. It is honorable to fight, but cowardly to commit suicide.

ROOSEVELT TO BARNES

The following letters then were read from Roosevelt to Barnes and Parsons:

August, 21, 1908.

My Dear Mr. Barnes:

Yesterday I saw Sherman Bennet, George Smith, Mike Dady, and Hitchcock, chairman of the National Committee, here.

I have been carefully going into the Hughes matter since I saw you. I appreciate to the full force of the arguments you urged against renomination.

It is not pleasant for me to support a man who has wantonly behaved badly to the very men who did most in securing his election, I would approve his turning them down in the public interest, but I object to it being done wantonly.

Moreover, I appreciate that he has alienated quite needlessly very many voters, and if we had the right man to put in his place (the right man from the standpoint of getting votes) I would say that it was certainly wise to nominate such a man. But no such man is in sight and there

Mexicans Order U. S. Newspaper Man Executed

EL PASO, April 26.—Phil McCleary, an American newspaper man who has been in Mexico representing several news agencies, has been arrested by order of General Carranza for sending out uncensored dispatches from Vera Cruz, and sentenced to be shot.

This is the report received by F. E. McCleary, his father, who lives in this city. McCleary has sent a number of telegrams to the State Department, concerning the incident, but so far has received no reply.

He has been unable to get word to or from his son, who is said to have been lodged in the San Juan de Ulua dungeons.

Fire Is Fatal to Pet Goat "Romeo"

"Romeo," like his Shakespearian namesake, is dead.

"Romeo" was the pet driving goat rescued during a fire Saturday night in a stable in the rear of the home of William H. Coughlin, No. 120 Old Harbor street, South Boston. When borne forth from the smoke and flame, "Romeo" was unconscious, but rallied under emergency treatment.

The goat, which was the pet of Mr. Coughlin's eight-year-old son Allan, died yesterday afternoon, and the obsequies took place today.

Thrilling Rescues at New York Fire

NEW YORK, April 26.—Thrilling rescues marked a fire which today destroyed the five-story tenement at No. 236 Sixth street. Fifteen families were rendered homeless and a score of persons sustained minor injuries or were overcome by smoke. Several persons are reported missing. It is not positively known whether they were in the building at the time of the fire.

Mildred Sullivan's Sweetheart Freed

HOULTON, Me., April 26—Ambrose Bridge, who figured in the Dr. Dudley murder trial as the sweetheart of Mildred Sullivan, and who pleaded not guilty to the charge of being an accessory before the crime, was brought before the Supreme Court today and the case was nol-prossed. Bridge, who has been in the county jail since last December, was ordered discharged.

German African Colony Blockaded

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A blockade of the German colony of the Cameroons on the west coast of Africa was announced by the French government on behalf of the allies in a report from Ambassador Sharpe, in Paris, to the State Department today. The blockade went into effect last night.

ARREST IN BURBECK CASE NEAR

Esther Burbeck the Peabody girl who disappeared last Wednesday and who was supposed to have drowned herself—until she was located yesterday in Manchester, N. H.—was today brought from Manchester to her Peabody home by her father, John G. Burbeck, and Chief Grady of the Peabody police.

Ruth Burbeck, Esther's sister, went with the party to Manchester.

In Peabody, further extracts came to light from the extraordinary manuscript which Esther Burbeck left for her mother before she disappeared. One version quoted a portion of the manuscript as follows:

"To my mother—When you have finished reading this, my body will be found in the waters of Floating Bridge Pond in Lynn. I am tried of life. My parents, and especially my father, have been so abusive to me that I no longer desire to live.

DESERTED BY SWEETHEART.

"My sweetheart has also deserted me for another girl.

"I have always been a favorite among the boys in Peabody, and there was never a time that I could not get them to stand on their heads for me. There were, however, but three whom I cared for.

"I am now going to en dmy life in Floating Bridge Pond, and I leave behind me but few regrets, the chief of which is my separation from my sweetheart, who was the first to teach me what life really meant.

"For some years I have been troubled with tuberculosis, and following an operation in the hospital I have been lame. I have been unable to work steadily since leaving school.

"I care nothing for my family inasmuch as I know they care nothing for me, and I am now going to leave the house.

"Before I go, I am going to pack what few clothes I have and lock this confession to my mother in the desk which I know will be ransacked and broken open after they know I am dead."

The names of three men, two of whom have not hitherto been named in the case, appear in the manuscript.

Chief Grady discredited in part Esther Burbeck's "confession" to the Manchester police. He said an arrest might be made in the case.

Natt Buxton of Peabody, whose name, the Manchester police say, was found on a bit of paper in the girl's suit case, today said:

DENIES "JOY RIDING."

"My interest in the Burbeck girl was purely friendly. I first met her two years ago in her father's home. Last Summer she worked for a time taking care of my children. I never took her 'joy-riding.' I did take her and her mother together on a few automobile rides.

"I last saw her Wednesday, when

Claxton Wilstach Is Found Dead in His Hotel Room

Claxton Wilstach, one of the best-known theatrical publicity men in the United States, was found dead early today in his room at the Hotel Georgian, Park square. Wilstach had complained of ill health for some time. It was thought by the medical examiner that he had a heart attack while dressing.

Wilstach was about forty years old, and for many years was publicity man for Sothern and Marlowe. He had come to Boston about a week ago as publicity man for the "Birth of a Nation" film at the Tremont Theatre. His brother, Frank Wilstach, is also a widely-known theatrical publicity man.

New Passenger Rates Are Filed

The Boston & Albany Railroad has filed with the Public Service Commission its new tariff of one-way passenger fares in the State. These rates become effective Saturday and are in accord with the basis recently recommended by the commission. The new rates do not affect the price of mileage books, twelve nor twenty-five-ride tickets, nor season tickets, nor any fares between Boston and Riverside, main line or circuit. The fares between Boston and some of the larger stations, showing the old and new rates, are as follows:

	Old Rate.	New Rate.
Boston to Wellesley	$ .34	$ .30
Boston to Natick	.41	.38

Public Market Act in Force This Week

Under a new law which becomes operative this week every city and town of 10,000 population is authorized to maintain a public market, "with suitable buildings and grounds." In the event that the city or town fails to establish the public market, it is required to designate one or more streets or squares "to be used by farmers, fishermen and other persons, as public market places."

Crossed in Love, Girl Takes Poison

FRANKLIN, N. H., April 26.—Miss Christie Fifield, twenty-four years old, is dying in the local hospital from the effects of swallowing several poisonous tablets. Disappointment in a love affair with a well-known young man of Manchester was the cause of her act. Several years ago for a similar reason, she threw herself into the Winnipesaukee River, but was rescued in time to save her life.

AMSTERDAM, April 26.—A Zeppelin airship flew over the island of Schiermonnikoog today, proceeding westward in the direction of England.

MAYOR SAYS HE WAS OFFERED $2,500 BRIBE

Former Mayor Fitzgerald this afternoon replied to Mayor Curley's latest statement in the "recall" controversy between them by saying:

"The Mayor's talk about Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Murray as far as it relates to me is perfect nonsense. I say, stop talking, Mr. Mayor, and go to work on those things you were elected to undertake. Boston's streets and parkways are disgraceful. The Summer season is near and because of the war New England should be the Mecca for thousands of tourists who have never seen this wonderful city. Prepare it as its history and accomplishments deserve.

"Give up those secret partnerships which involve the honor of the Mayor's office and if you do I will be your strongest supporter."

B. & A. EXPRESS IN A WRECK; 1 HURT

One man was injured and several other passengers thrown into a panic in a rear-end collision between the Boston-bound Southwestern Express of the New York Central line, and a freight train, near Chester, about twelve miles east of Springfield, today.

E. J. Karnscheug of Toledo, O., jumped from the rear of the passenger train as the freight approached, and suffered a broken leg. Neither of the trains were damaged by the crash. The express later continued on to Boston, arriving here about 10 o'clock.

CURLEY SAYS HE REJECTED GRAFT OFFER

Mayor Curley this afternoon told the details of his story of how the representative of a big business concern offered him a $2,500 bribe to settle to the concern's satisfaction a dispute over $5,000 involved in a contract it had with the city.

The Mayor charged that the firm's representative wanted to "fix it up" and promised the concern would "make it all right" with the Mayor.

ROOSEVELT THOUGHT HUGHES GUILTY OF "WANTON" ACTION

does not seem to be the slightest chance of his arising.

Under the conditions it seems to me that, while it will do damage to renominate Hughes, it will do more damage not to renominate him, and that this damage will extend outside of the State.

While, therefore, I want most emphatically to disclaim any intention of seeming to dictate the nomination, I think I ought to tell you that my judgment is that the convention ought to renominate him. I am sure that the delegates from this district will be for him. Bennet, Sherman and Dady insist that there is no alternative to his renomination. Hitchcock says that not to renominate him would be a harm to the canvass outside of New York, as well as, in his judgment, in New York. Even Smith finally announced that he was inclined to take the same view.

I may add that everyone present agreed to keep absolutely quiet in this matter and to consult with you among others before any kind of conclusion was announced; but from the papers I should judge some one had talked. It was not I, for no newspaper men communicated with me, directly or indirectly, and I was as much surprised as any one when I saw the statements in the papers.

Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

TO STAND BY FRIEND.

An identical letter to Herbert Parsons on the same date was then read.

The next letter read was to Barnes as follows:

Aug. 24, 1908.

My Dear Barnes:

Most emphatically whatever my friends do up in Alabny I shall stand by them. I have given them, including you, my best judgment. It is not a judgment based on newspapers; it is judgment based on what Congressman Bennet has found from his personal canvass; what Sol Strassburger finds on the East Side of New York; what Prendergast and Mike Dady find in Brooklyn; what Cocks finds here in my own district; what Jim Sherman finds to be the overwhelming sentiment right near you in central New York; what Hitchcock said, as to the effect outside.

Now, if you and those like you fear that I shall ask you to cut your throats, your fear is groundless. But my judgment is that the convention will nominate Hughes and that it would hurt very much more not to nominate him than to nominate him; although it will undoubtedly hurt us also to nominate him.

Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

SMOOTHING DOWN PARSONS.

This letter to Parsons was then read:

August 27, 1908.

My Dear Parsons:

I have far too many necessary encounters with men I do not like to permit myself to feel even a passing irritation at sharp words from men whom I not only like, but thoroughly respect, as I do you. Now, my dear fellow, when you ask if you are "to understand that I am opposed to having the Republicans of New York County express their wishes in this matter on primary day," I think you must be giving vent to a very natural irritation rather than asking a serious question.

"You know, of course, that I am not in the least opposed, and not be opposed to having the Republicans of any county express their wishes on primary day. On the contrary, when you were here with Barnes, Hendricks and the others, what I kept saying to you was that I earnestly hoped we could get just such a free expression of the voters wishes. You are entirely right in saying that you understood that I was unwilling, in view of Hughes' conduct toward you, Hendricks and Barnes, to ask you any of you to support him. I am very unwilling to do so, and when I saw you I hoped that no necessity would ever arise for me to do it; but we also agreed at that time that the situation might change at any time, and that we could not tell what would have to be done when the time came—unless the situation cleared you were strong.

In your statements of what you said as to Hughes' unpopularity, and I certainly understand you to say that Bennett felt exactly as you did (as an unimportant incident, I may mention that Amos Pinchot notified me that you had entirely mistaken him and that he favored the nomination of Hughes), when Bennet tells me as the local leaders like Strassburger tell me, that the sentiment is very strong for the renomination of Hughes, I have got to take notice of it.

I entirely agree with all you say as to your just reasons for complaint against Governor Hughes, and furthermore with all you say as to the fact that many of those who desire his renomination desire it chiefly for the purpose of hurting the Republican party.

"Moreover, my dear Parsons, you can hardly serously suppose that, to quote your own words, I am trying to 'treat you as a puppet'—that is, if you mean me when you say 'Those in charge of the national campaign' which of course I am not. On the contary I have written again and again to Taft and to Hitchcock not to make any open statement and I haven't the slightest intenton of 'tellnig you what to do' and never will 'tell the newspapers that you will be told what to do,' and never have thought of so tellnig them. You wrote me requesting to see me, and asking that I say nothing until I had seen you.

"We went over the situation. I afterward saw Bennet and various others, including Sherman, and the situation as they related it was so totally different that I felt I ought to tell you that this, with other knowledge brought to me, had made me alter my mind as what was the wise thing to do. But surely my letter most explicitly disclaims any intention to dictate to you.

Those canvasses that you mention are very instructive, but it is difficult to reconcile them with Strassburger's, is it not? Still I absolutely agree with you that there are many cross-currents. That there are many currents against Hughes; but I don't see whom you're going to put in his place who won't be weaker.

Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

P. S.—Let me repeat that of course I want the fullest and and most open expression of preference at the primaries; that I'll stand heartily for whatever you, Fassett and the rest of the leaders finally do, and have no intention of 'forcing the nomination' or of trying to; but that unless you object I should like, as a good Republican and party man, and a staunch believer in you, to tell you my judgment, for whatever it it worth.

FOR HUGHES AS "NECESSITY."

When the letters were read the colonel was asked if they were substantially correct.

"To the best of my recollection, they are," was the answer.

"Did you oppose the nomination of Mr. Hughes?" asked Mr. Ivins.

"I did not."

"Did you advocate his nomination?"

"Not until I thought it necessary, because there seemed to be no one else," said the colonel.

"Were your personal and political feelings toward Mr. Hughes at that time the same as those of other Republican political leaders in New Ivins.

ESTHER BURBECK TELLS OF FLIGHT

she was on her way home from school, I was in my machine.

"I have no idea where the girl got the money she had. She never said anything in my presence about running away from home."

It is supposed the younger daughter, Ruth, was taken to Manchester because she was Esther's greatest confidant. Chief Grady plans to question the girl at length. He said before leaving Peabody:

"I do not put much faith in the girl's statement that she got the $130 which she had from Richard Garland, a Lynn chauffeur. I believe the money was given her by someone else in the case.

"Developments today may lead to an arrest. If the girl was taken out of the State or helped over the State line an arrest under the 'white slave' laws is possible."

"I left home," she said, "because my folks did not seem to care for me. I wrote the note telling them I had committed suicide, and left my hat near Floating Bridge Pond, because I wanted them to think I was dead.

"I had been trying to get away from home for a long time. There wasn't any one thing that they did, but I thought that they didn't care to have me around the house any longer.

"I had everything all carefully planned out. A couple of days before I left I carried my black Gladstone bag out of the house and carefully hid it. I had packed it with food, some clothing and a second suit of clothing.

"On Wednesday I went to the hiding place and got these things. Then I took a car to Boston. Ruth Fellows was on the car, and I had to shake her. So I got off before we came to Floating bridge, telling her I felt sick.

"I went to the pond and left my hat there, with my mother's address pinned inside, on a piece of paper. I thought sure that when they found that they would think I had killed myself, and after a while the fuss would die down and I would be less apt to be discovered.

"From Lynn I took a car to Danvers. There I got a trolley to Lawrence. When we got near Lawrence I saw some woods near the road, so I got off and went into the woods. I stayed there until Sunday, four nights and three days.

NOT THE TIMID KIND.

"I'm not any fraid cat. The woods didn't frighten me any. I got used to sleeping outdoors in a hospital, and last Fall I used to sleep in a tent at home until December 5.

"I ate all the food I brought with me. In the daytime I kept a fire going, but I had to put it out at night for fear someone would see it. At nighttime I used my extra suit of clothes for bed clothing. I changed my clothes in the woods, saving my best suit so that it would not get dirty. I felt perfectly safe in the woods because I had my revolver with me, all loaded. I know how to use it, too, because my father taught us all the use of firearms.

"Sunday morning, the food was all gone and I thought that by that time everyone would think I was dead, and none would identify me. So I burned the old suit of clothes and went to Lawrence.

"In Lawrence I took a train to Manchester I intended to buy a ticket there for San Francisco. I was going to find my uncle out there in Merced County, California. When I got to San Francisco I was going to ask help in finding my uncle from an Episcopalian minister. My people are Universalists and they made a big fuss about my attending the Episcopal church, but I preferred it, and I attended the church.

WANTS TO GO WEST.

"The money I had, about $130, I got from Richard Garland, a Lynn chauffeur. No, I wasn't keeping company with him. He pretended to think a whole lot of me, but he thought a good deal more of his job. I got the money by doing things for him, like mending his clothes.

"If you let me go now, I will go straight to California. I don't want to go home. If I have to, of course I will. I won't try to run away again, though, until I am twenty-one. It was just by chance that I came here. I do not know anyone here, but I was just heading generally toward Montreal. I was going West through Montreal."

John Cudahy Buried.

CURLEY REVEALS GRAFT OFFER

The Mayor classified the bribe attempt as graft, and incidentally charger that there was a ring of political grafters who made sums ranging from $300 or $400 to $5,000 by "trading on" their pretended influence with the Mayor.

The Mayor described this representative as a well-dressed young college man, and went on:

"There was $5,000 in dispute with this firm over the contract which the firm had with the city.

"The young man in qestion approached me in this office and pleaded with me for an amicable adjustment of that dispute. I told him there was 'nothing doing'; that his firm would have to live up to the terms of its contract with the city of Boston or suffer the consequences.

"He then said:

"'What's the use of all this trouble? Can't we fix it up between ourselves? The firm could lose $2,500. You've ben very friendly to us, and we're ready to make it all right with you."

SHOWED HIM THE DOOR.

"I looked him square in the eye and said.

"'I'm not doing busines that way. Your firm will make good on its contract or lose the entire $5,000.'

"I then showed him to the door and that ended the incident.

"This was nothing more nor less than a $2,500 bribe offered to me if I would call the fight over the $5,000 on the contract off."

The aMyor then talked of the grafting in the vicinity of City Hall of the political ring. He said:

'It's a common thing for politicians, some of whom were in my camp and some of whom were not, to pick up information as to what the administration is going to do in important cases. The moment these people get a tip that to them seems straight as to the probable action of the Mayor, they will fly to the man whose interests are involved and demand sums varying from $300 or $400 to, in some instances, $5,000 to 'push the thing through.'

"If the sum demanded by them is $5,000, the man whose interests are at stake is given to understand that $4,000 is given to me and the other $1,000 is retained by the man who pretended he would 'push the deal through.'

"As a matter of fact, if the politician has the thing doped out right and the thing goes through as predicted, he collects and keeps the entire $5,000, while the man who gives up tells his friends that he bought Mayor Curley for $5,000."

MAYOR TO END PRACTICE.

The Mayor declared he was determined to put an end to "the practice of selling alleged influence with himself for cash."

He declared that in the next case of the sort that he would lay the matter before District Attorney Pelletier, if he could get the necessary evidence.

District Attorney Pelletier said:

"There is no evidence of direct bribery so far as I know. If the Mayor has any evidence, I shall be glad to investigate this whole matter."

The Mayor's charges caused widespread comment today. In a frank interview of his administration to date, the Mayor blamed former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald for what recall talk exists, and declares he (the Mayor) refused to accept the proffered resignation of John A. Sullivan as Corporation Counsel.

The Mayor charged that a young attorney who was much interested in the Curley campaign for Mayor had visited all the persons in the so-called Cinatown building cases and had "taken retainers."

Blood Risings Begin A Mere Speck

Stop Them From Growing Large and Dangerous.

Nearly everyone who uses S. S. S. for the blood recalls a friend who went through untold suffering as the result of a mere pimple or small blood rising. A host of people did not realize, until too late, what may result from a slight skin abrasion. But they recovered if they used S. S. S., and in almost every village and hamlet, every crossroad and away back off the road is someone who will tell you how S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, restored his health.

It is a most interesting fact that this remarkable vegetable medicine overhauls the blood in a manner that excites curious minds.

But it acts in accordance with accepted physiological laws and yet its effect is almost beyond comprehension to those who are wedded to such drugs as mercury, calomel, arsenic, iodide of potash, copper and other baneful influences which all the world bears silent testimony to their destructive tendencies.

S. S. S. is indeed a nature's tribute to what we need and it is worthy of note that in almost any drug store throughout the country you will find it regularly in stock. Get a bottle today. And if you believe yours is a peculiar case, write to the Medical Adviser of the Swift Specific Co., 106 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Our word for it, he is one of Georgia's appreciated specialists, retired from active practice but proud of his name and of his recognized ability.

Fair Sex Leads in Heaven, Says Pastor Johnson

There are more women than men in Heaven, according to the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church. But, he adds, they are poor financiers.

"Women as a rule know so little about the stock market that it is an easy matter for a seller of stocks, claiming to be an ex-minister and wearing a frock coat and a white bow tie, to sell finely illuminated certificates, good for sending decorated suspenders to the South Sea islanders, to any wealthy woman," he says.

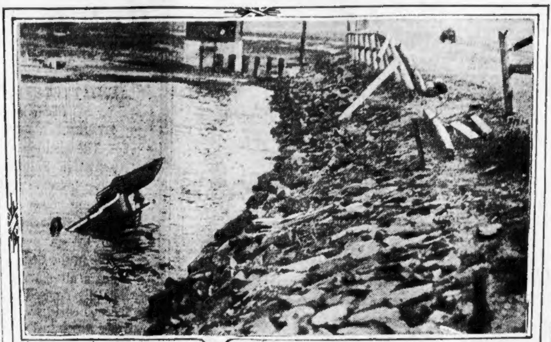
Steering Gear Balks on Lynn Boulevard



I. G. Theobold's wrecked auto after plunge with party of five into Saugus River creek. Mrs. Theobold, whose photograph is given here, was in the party.

Machine Tears Through Fence on Way to Saugus River; Passengers Escape Seirous Injury.

Five passengers in an automobile were thrown head foremost into the muddy waters of the Saugus River creek early today when the steering gear of the machine went wrong on the Lynnway boulevard. They escaped with a shaking up and minor bruises.

The car belonged to I. G. Theobold, Watertown, who lives at No. 788 Mt. a chauffeur employed by the Walker & Pratt Manufacturing Company of Auburn street, Watertown. He was driving. In the car besides Theobold and his wife were Patrick Mooney of Winchester, Charlotte Mooney, Mr. Mooney's twelve-year-old daughter, and a Winchester man, a friend of Mr. Mooney's.

Theobold today told the story.

"We had been to see some relatives in Lynn Sunday afternoon," he said. "About 7 o'clock we started for home, and right away our troubles began. A tire went wrong and I changed three shoes in succession on one of the rear wheels. It took me three or four hours, tinkering away, and we didn't strike into the Lynnway boulevard till about midnight.

"And then as we were going along easily I felt my steering gear snap in my hands. I gave a wrench to stop the car, but it swerved just enough so that the front right wheel caught in the fence.

"The car twisted around and plunged down the bank into the water. We were thrown out, and the five of us floundered to shore through the mud and muck.

"The car landed on its radiator with its wheels in the air. We didn't give it another thought. We were too glad to find none of us had been hurt.

"We climbed out and left the car there and went to a garage to hire a machine to get home. I guess they are working to get the machine out. It was pretty well smashed up."

The Lynn accident was one of several in New England.

C. Edward French of Stowe was killed and his brother, James, seriously injured, when they were struck by an automobile, owned and operated by Joseph P. Rabidou, on Barre road, Montpelier, Vt.

Bertis A. Hoyt, a salesman, was killed at Middletown, R. I., when an automobile in which he was riding with Nathan E. Sergeant turned turtle, fracturing his skull. Sergeant was slightly injured.

Luigi Di Mitrin, twenty-one, was killed when he was struck by an automobile in Providence.

As the result of a motor cycle accident on the curve on Farnumsville street, Grafton, Frank Boudreau of Westboro, is in St. Vincent's Hospital, Worcester, with a compound fracture of the right leg, fractured right hip and numerous cuts about the face and body.

DRYDOCK BILL IS DEFENDED

Chairman Edward F. McSweeney of the directors of the Port of Boston today denied the claim of the Boston Building Trades Council that the bill now before the Senate to authorize the building of a drydock would make binding the contract drawn by Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins and cost the State from $131,000 to $180,000 more than if a new contract were submitted.

Chairman McSweeney said all items in the contract accepted by the former Board of Port Directors would have to be inspected, and, if necessary, be readjusted to meet present prices. He added:

"The firm of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins has no claim on the directors of the Port of Boston other than what might be termed moral or sentimental."

The Building Trades Council, through its president, Ignatius McNulty, claims that since June, 1914, when the questioned contract was signed, there has been a reduction of at least 10 per cent. in the price of building materials. It consequently maintains that a new call for bids will result in a saving of at least $180,000 on the general contract alone.

Owing to the present scarcity of big construction jobs, the council further claims many big firms would be glad to bid on the drydock project with a large resultant saving to the State.

FIREBUG BAND MAY BE WORKING CITY

Boston may have an organised band of firebugs like that which was discovered at work in New York, if certain reports communicated to Fire Prevention Commissioner John A. O'Keefe are substantiated. The commissioner, in an address before the Lynn Socialist Club, told what he had learned regarding the possible existence of such a gang.

"Recently a man came to my office," he said, "and told me he had something to say about fires in Boston. He told me that one of his friends, a woman who conducts a small store in that city, had asked him to lend her $50.

"When he asked her why she wanted the money, she said she wanted to have a fire. He requested further details, and she informed him that she could hire a man for $50 who would start a fire in her store while she was away. Police inspectors are working on the case."

Old Theatre Burns.

NEW HAVEN, April 26. — The Grand Opera House in Crown street, the oldest playhouse in New Haven, was burned. The loss is estimated at $107,000.

NEWTON RUNAWAY IN POLICE HANDS

Anna Smith, the fourteen-year-old Newton High School sophomore, who disappeared on Friday from her home, at No. 113 Adams street, West Newton, and who was found in New York city on Saturday night, was taken from the New York Home of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children today by Police Inspector Edward P. Halloran of Newton.

This information was given over the long distance telephone by an agent of the society. The agent stated that Inspector Halloran's plan was to bring the girl home today.

"The girl runaway was turned over to the inspector at 5 a. m. today," the agent declared. "The inspector must have felt sure the girl we were caring for was the missing Newton girl, for he took her with him, and we understood they were to return to Boston immediately."

Frank Smith, father of the runaway, who had conducted a wide search for the girl, had said he was not certain that the girl detained in New York was his daughter.

"If this is some other girl," he had announced, "I am done. She had all I could give her. She took four suits of clothes with her. Only two weeks ago I gave her a new costume. If she was not satisfied with the best I could give her, then let her go."

The Newton police, however, said they felt satisfied the girl was Anna Smith. They said they expected Inspector Halloran to arrive in Boston with the girl this afternoon. News of the finding of the girl in New York was published exclusively in yesterday's Sunday AMERICAN.

Anna disappeared from her home Friday, leaving as usual for her classes in the Newton High School, where she is a sophomore. When she did not return home the police were notified. Saturday morning it was discovered that she had cashed a check on her father for $125, and a note was also found, signed "Sister Mary," telling Anna to meet her in New York Saturday.

It was at first believed that the letter came from Anna's sister, who left home about two years ago. It has since been ascertained that Mary knew nothing of the matter.

The letter was dated April 13, and was dated Los Angeles, Cal. No envelope could be found from there. It told of "Mary's" marriage to "Harry" and of the wonderful motors and yachts which he owned and which she could share.

Chief Mitchell has come to the conclusion that the letter was written by Anna as a means of throwing searchers off the track.

HUNDREDS 'HIT TRAIL' FOR SUNDAY

By International News Service.

PATERSON, April 26.—"Billy" Sunday packed the Tabernacle three times yesterday. Altogether he preached to more than 20,000 persons. The afternoon and evening sessions were solely for men and the big crowd sat sweltering in their shirt sleeves while the evangelist, coatless, collarless and bathed in perspiration, delivered his sermon.

In the morning 238 hit the sawdust trail, in the afternoon 377, and in the evening 272, bringing the total of trail hitters in the Paterson revival to date close to 4,000.

The day's collections amounted to $2,102.76. At both men's meetings Sunday preached on "The devil's broomerang up to date, or hot cakes off the griddle." There were twenty heat prostrations in the meeting. Fifteen of these were attended in the emergency hospital.

The sermon dealing with social evils and their consequences abounded in figures and facts like a medical treatise and was sometimes startling in its frankness.

"I'm talking now so any single man can understand what I mean," shouted Sunday, bounding and leaping about like a child in the snow instead of a fifty-two-year-old man in a 92-degree temperature.

He swung into his diatribe against rum.

"It's killing you men. It's killing you, I tell you," he yelled. "I'm trying to help you," he said earnestly, his raucous voice vibrating. "I'm trying to help you put a carpet on your floor, put a pane of glass in your window instead of a pillow, and give your wife and children good clothes.

"I'm trying to get you to save your money instead of buying an automobile for the saloonkeeper while you hot-foot it. By the grace of God I have strength to pass the saloon, but some of you haven't and I'm trying to help you."

Soot Causes Fire in South Boston House

Fire in the two and one-half story dwelling at No. 414 West Sixth street, South Boston, occupied by Benjamin Shonberg and family, was discovered by Patrolman William R. Harrington of the Broadway station. Harrington saw huge volumes of smoke pouring out of the windows and broke open the door. After half an hour's work the fire was extinguished. Soot blocking the chimney was given as the cause.

NEW THRILLS ABOUND IN THE LATEST EXPLOITS OF ELAINE

WHAT would you think if, while you sat in a handsomely furnished drawing room, your own or some one's else, the eye of a huge bronze monster opened, fixed you with a searching gaze, then closed? You would think you had been dreaming. But that is what happened in the episode of the Exploits of Elaine.

Wu Fang, hungering for the ill-gotten millions that had been the object of Perry Bennett's deep-wrought villainies, sought in a cave the key to the treasure vault. He discovered that the key was in fact a ring, and swore that though a hundred lives stood between him and it he would have that ring.

Learning that it was in Elaine's home, he hid within the bronze monster, an Oriental figure, acquaintance with which he had made at Elaine's reception. His long, snakelike body, draped only about the loins, he disposed within the hollow monster. From that point of vantage he saw Craig Kennedy hand to Elaine's aunt the mysterious ring, heard him say: "Guard this as you would your life."

He saw Elaine's chaperon, and recent sharer in her misfortunes, place the key in a jewel box and saw her leave with it in her arms, for her rooms.

To the door of the room he followed her. Applying first his eye, then his ear, to the keyhole, he assured himself that she was asleep. Noiselessly he contrived to remove the door from its hinges.

Stealthily the snake-like figure crosses the room to the chair where Elaine's aunt has fallen asleep. He stretches forth his thin, claw-like, greedy hand for the treasure. The woman moves. He starts back. In the fashion of persons who are sleeping deeply she lets her arms, that have been clasping the precious box, fall to her side. The man who looks like a snake seizes the box and silently glides from the room.

"Elaine, My Moving Picture Queen," is the title of a delightful new song just put on the market. Already it is being sung all over the country. It is dedicated to Miss Pearl White and bears her autographed photograph in colors. The song is a rollicking one-step and is generally conceded to be one of the season's hits. It may be purchased at any music store, or a copy will be mailed postpaid by sending six two-cent stamps to the Star Company, P. O. Box 1740, New York city.

KILL THE SULLIVAN BILL!

IT IS SPECIAL AND CLASS LEGISLATION AIMED TO DESTROY "THE BIRTH OF A NATION" AT THE TREMONT THEATRE, BUT IF ENACTED INTO LAW WILL ASSASSINATE DRAMATIC ART IN THE STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS

WHAT THE HERALD SAYS
(Editorially)

HYSTERICAL LEGISLATION.

The petition of Representative Sullivan for a large increase in the censorship power of the city executive ought to be beaten by an overwhelming vote in the Legislature. It bears all the marks of a hastily devised measure designed to secure an end for which just now there is much popular demand, but which, once in operation, would do far more to limit the freedom of the individual, of the theatre, and of the church and the press than any citizen devoted to the best interests of the whole people could possibly desire. The agitation over a film play now showing at a Boston theatre has induced hysterical conditions in many minds, one of the symptoms of which is this petition offered in all seriousness by Mr. Sullivan. An amendment is far too radical which seeks to change the existing law by penalizing those responsible for "any show or entertainment which tends to excite racial or religious prejudice or tends to a breach of the public peace."

This petition would enable any group of persons, held together by sympathies of race or creed, or even by professional or merely selfish considerations, to produce the conditions which would warrant the application of the censorship. It would only be necessary for them to meet and pass protesting resolutions, or to agitate and assume a threatening attitude, or to put themselves in the position of violating the public peace. It is easy to legislate in haste, and hasty legislation is usually followed by prolonged and costly penitence. Along with vehement protest against admitted wrong must be joined calm consideration of the means of cure. Officials now have the power, under the laws as they are, to revoke the license of any theatre whose exhibitions tend to damage public morals. Recourse may be had from the decisions of these officials to the courts. The people are impatient of any censorship which limits that freedom which they hold as a priceless heritage. They want exact fairness and justice for all races and creeds. The only limitations of personal freedom which they are disposed to tolerate must be in the interest of general decency and moral welfare.

With due respect for social fair play, it must be remembered that besides freedom of speech and freedom of the press, we need the same sort of freedom of the stage.

WHAT THE TRANSCRIPT SAYS
(Editorially)

THE CURSE OF A NATION

The framers of the organic law of the Commonwealth concluded their contribution to human happiness with the purposeful phrase: "To the end it may be a government of laws and not of men." Upon Massachusetts therefore rests a peculiar obligation to oppose the tendency of the times to change by class legislation and executive censorship a government of laws to a government of men. The passion to limit by legislation or executive order the freedom of the individual is today the curse of the nation. * * *

The Sullivan petition would deliver a blow at religious freedom, the rights of the individual and the liberty of the press. It puts a premium on violence by making it possible for any two men who engage in a fisticuff in the lobby of a theatre to force the authorities to stop the show or entertainment over which the fisticuff occurred. Were such a statute in operation today our citizens of German sympathies could prevent by resolutions of protest or threats of violence the exhibition of any film showing the devastation in Belgium; our Catholic citizens could shut down any theatre whose entertainment failed to receive the approval of the cardinal! our Jewish citizens could prohibit a performance of "The Merchant of Venice;" our Christian Science citizens could place their veto upon any film whose portrayal of pain or of the efficacy of medical aid they found conflicted with the tenets of their creed: our Protestant citizens could end the exhibition of any film extolling the usefulness of the parochial school system or portraying the awful persecution of the priests and nuns in Mexico; our mill owners could drive off the stage any play or from the screen any film portraying the horrors of child labor; our saloon keepers could force the Prohibitionists to give up the use of the film in their crusade; our citizens of Southern origin could have the license of any theatre revoked where a picture was exhibited in illustration of the hideous conditions to which helpless Negro prisoners are today subjected in some of the Southern States. In short, the usefulness of the theatre either as a place of amusement or of education would be reduced to a ridiculous minimum were the law enforced as Mr. Sullivan would write it.

No city or town officials in Massachusetts today lack power under existing law to revoke the license of any theatre giving an exhibition which, in the opinion of the authorities, is obscene or immoral or tends to injure the morals of the community. Where the decision of the mayor, or in the case of Boston, of the mayor and the head of the police jointly, is not satisfactory, an appeal can be taken to the courts. Such an appeal has just been made in this city and the court decision was promptly complied with by the theatre management and acquiesced in by the city officials. No further legislation is necessary to protect the public morals of any community, and no further legislation is warranted which would set up over any community a racial or religious censorship. If it be found that the city authorities are not enforcing existing laws with respect to motion pictures, it may well be that the responsibility for such enforcement will sooner or later be transferred either to the state board of education, or better still to a national board under the direction of the secretary of the interior, which is provided for in a bill favorably reported to the House of Representatives at the last session of Congress. But we must keep in mind that to license a theatre is no more to sanction its exhibitions than to license a book store is to approve the contents of the books sold over its counters. Any sort of censorship is irritating to the spirit of our people, and only that regulation which is in the essential interest of public decency and public morals should ever be tolerated, if we are to preserve the handiwork of the fathers, the form they wrought—"a government of laws and not of men."

THE JOURNAL ON "THE BIRTH OF A NATION"
(Editorially)

NOW that the last valid objection to the production of "The Birth of a Nation" has been removed, it is in order to remark that the picture drama is remarkably effective, because exceptionally inspiring, from the standpoint of broad and true Americanism. It represents an outlay of a fortune in preparation, but it represents something more important to the public, and that is its careful and coherent attempt to tell the story of the nation's upbuilding in a manner that will appeal most effectively to the average human.

Indeed, on its constructive side, it is easily one of the most remarkable achievements that the people of Boston have ever seen. Unfortunately a serious diversion caused by the opposition of colored leaders in this city to certain phases of "The Birth of a Nation" has obscured temporarily—except for those who witnessed the production with open minds and responsive hearts—the strength, beauty and inspiration of the whole.

"The Birth of a Nation" goes further in genuine constructive work by means of photographic films than any of its predecessors have gone or tried to go. It deserves the unqualified support of those who seek something better and more satisfactory than a few hours of enjoyment and who can appreciate the zeal and energy, the intelligence and patriotism, that are so happily blended in Mr. Griffth's masterpiece. No man or woman can see "The Birth of a Nation" without rejoicing that he or she is part of that nation and a sharer in a glorious heritage.

RESUME FIRE ON TURKISH FORTS

ATHENS, April 26.—Bombardment of the Dardanelles forts was vigorously resumed Sunday morning, all big battleships sent by France and England participating. After shelling the forts at long range the battleships moved closer, coming within range of the Turkish gunners, who then opened fire in reply.

By LUDWIG VON KLEIN,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

CONSTANTINOPLE, via Berlin and Amsterdam, April 26.—Russia's Black Sea fleet bombarded the outer forts of the Bosphorus for a second time Sunday, shelling at long range the fortifications of the eastern gateway to Constantinople. The attacking fleet showed extreme caution, however, at no time coming within range of the guns of the forts.

While the long range bombardment was proceding three Russian aeroplanes flew over the forts on the European side, making a reconnaissance. They retired when fired upon by the Turkish artillery.

The following official statement was issued today by the Turkish War Office:

"Yesterday afternoon the Russian fleet carried out a demonstration, firing for half an hour outside the range of fire of the Bosphorus forts. The Turkish gunners made no reply. The Russian bombardment was ineffective, none of the forts being damaged."

MALTA, April 26.—The British battleship Triumph was struck by three Turkish shells while bombarding the Dardanelles forts on April 16. Two men were wounded by one of the shells which struck the bridge and passed through to the deck, but the battleship was not serious damaged.

AMSTERDAM, April 26.—The Van Dias news agency states that Germany is sending food to Austria, several train loads of supplies having been already dispatched to Trieste and Cattaro, in consequence of the food riots there.

JAPAN MASSES 300,000 FOR WAR

By International News Service.

SHANGHAI, April 26.—Dr. Hioki, Japanese Minister to Pekin, has handed to the Chinese Foreign Minister a note insisting on the unconditional acceptance of the last proposals transmitted from Tokio, according to a dispatch from Pekin today. Notice was given that further delay would result in the breaking off of negotiations.

Instead of the 120,000 troops which Japan was reported to have sent to China, it is now reported that 300,000 have been massed on Shantung Peninsula in anticipation of war.

French Aviation Corps Aid Serbia

By International News Service.

NISH, Servia, April 26.—France has sent a corps of aviators to assist the Serbian army, it became known today. The French airmen have established headquarters in the barracks of the Twenty-seventh Serbian infantry at Belgrade. They scout out the Austrian batteries and direct the fire of the Serbians on the south bank of the Danube.

Chased 4 Hours by German Submarine

NEW YORK, April 26.—The steamer City of London was chased for fours in the English Channel by a German submarine, according to the Rev. W. E. Boggs, here today from Liverpool on the steamer New York. A fellow passenger was John A. Wilson, a cousin of President Wilson, returning from a four weeks' visit to England.

Villages Wiped Out, Plea Sent Wilson

LONDON, April 26. — Following news of the massacre of all the inhabitants in ten Armenian villages by the Mohammedans, the Katholikos, head of the Armenian church, at Etchmiadzin, near Erivan, cabled to President Wilson an appeal to the people of the United States on behalf of the Armenians.

Committed Suicide in Fever Delirium

American Doctor Serbian Typhus Victim

Dr. James F. Donnelly of Brooklyn Seizes Rifle from Sentry and Shoots Himself.

By ARIEL VARGES,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

BELGRADE, via London, April 26.—Dr. Edward W. Ryan of the American Red Cross, who was stricken with typhus fever soon after he arrived in Serbia, is now on the way to recovery, but all members of the American mission seem to be in for a siege of fever.

The saddest feature of the Serbian campaign as regards America was the death of Dr. James F. Donnelly, the famous Brooklyn physician, who was in charge of the United States unit at the front for some time.

Dr. Donnelly, it is now learned, committed suicide while delirious. He seized a rifle from a Serbian sentry and shot himself, dying within a few hours.

The American unit opened its work in Serbia at the border town of Gevgelia, where it turned a tobacco factory into a hospital. Here the average number of patients was about 1,500. Most of the nursing staff went down with typhus when Dr. Donnelly and Dr. Ryan were stricken.

On a recent visit to the front Crown Prince Alexander called at the American Hospital and was welcomed by Dr. Kirby Smith. The Prince who is Regent in Serbia at present, praised the work of the American unit highly. After visiting the physicians and nurses who had been stricken he talked to the Serbian and Austrian patients, who share the same room.

Up to date your correspondent has been in the best of health but I am worried over my companion, Umberto Romangolia, an Italian correspondent. After leaving headquarters we visited the trenches and there I believe he was bitten by an insect and infected. I nursed him for five days and then brought him to Belgrade.

Umberto saved my life on two occasions, once from shrapnel and the other time from Austrian rifle fire. I shall stay here until he recovers or dies. If he dies I shall see him buried. He has agreed to do the some by me.

Here in little Servia I do about as I like, living most of the time at the front. Many of the officers have become my firm friends. The military attache who accompanies me from headquarters likes to fight but he also appreciates a holiday and is urging me to stay as long as possible.

During my stay I have lost two servants, one from typhus, the other being shot.

PARIS REPORTS REPULSE OF GERMANS IN DRIVE ON YPRES

"After recovering from the terrific attack of the German hosts, the allied troops stood their ground like a stonewall, literaly annihilating the masses of German soldiers who were hurled forward.

At the first sign at wavering in the German attack the British and French troops opened a counter attack. This was followed by another, a third and a fourth. The German line broke. No living men could resist. Cut off from their retreating comrades, scores of Germans surrendered.

"Another effort by the Kaiser's army to hack its way to the French cost ports has collapsed before well started."

By capturing the village of St. Julien and a little strip of woodland between Pilkem and St. Julien, the Germans have straightened out their front between the two towns. Here they are opposed by the British troops, who have apparently withstood the first jury of the German attacks, the Canadian troops having inflicted severe losses upon the Kaiser's soldiers.

FORCED GERMANS BACK.

Northwest of Ypres, on the Ypres canal, the Germans are reported to have suffered a severe reverse at the hands of combined French and Belgian forces, who recaptured the town of Lizerne by a night attack and drove the Germans back to the canal, most of them having been forced to retire to the east bank.

The French artillery is pouring a rain of shells into the canal in an effort to destroy the pontoon bridges thrown across it between Steenstraate and Het Sas.

The text of this afternoon's Paris communique follows:

"In Belgium two German attacks, debouching from Passachendaele and Brodseuide, were stopped by British troops. The enemy then bombarded Ypres with violence.

"Our movement along the Yser canal continues.

"At Notre Dame de Lorette we repulsed a German attack.

"On the heights of the Meuse the battle is developing. The attack on the Caionne trenches, reported yesterday, was checked by our counter attack and the enemy was driven out. He then attacked more to the eastword, toward St. Remy, indicating plainly an effort to retake Eparges.

"A violent combat, preceded by a heavy bombardment, developed on the slopes east of that position. The German attack was checked."

The Berlin dispatch announcing the Kaiser's departure for the Flanders front says he is traveling by special train after a hasty return from the east.

EXPECT DRIVE TO CALAIS.

Unofficial reports state that the Kaiser was at Cracow when the new Flanders battle opened, and that he immediately returned to Berlin, where he remained but few hours, continuing his journey to Belgium.

Berlin dispatches state that rejoicing is general in Berlin over the German success in Flanders, and that the people expect complete victory in the efforts to reach Calais. They report also that hundreds of British and French prisoners are pouring into Germany, train after train carrying them through Aix La Chapelle.

The Paris War Office has received information that seven German generals were retired as the result of previous failures in Flanders, two having been driven from the army after receiving bitter censure from Emperor William in person.

65 MILES BATTLE FRONT.

Fighting is in progress along the sixty-five-mile front, extending from the North Sea to the south of Lille. The Germans are making determined attacks in the region of La Bassee, but their assaults failed to gain the success that marked their first drive against Ypres. At other points the armies of three nations, France, England and Belgium are assailing the Germans in an attempt to decrease the pressure about Ypres.

Along the Belgian coast British warships are bombarding the German positions, according to a dispatch from Sluis, Holland, which states that all day Sunday the booming of the great naval guns could be heard.

A Rotterdam dispatch states that the great German offensive at Ypres is being directed by Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, transferred by order of Emperor William from the Eastern theatre.

British experts are inclined to doubt this report, though it is well understod that German troops have been transfered from the Poland and East Prussian front to Belgium.

Large numbers of Austrians have reached Flanders, their places having also reached Flanders, their places having been filled in the East by reserve soldiers.

AUSTRIANS STILL HOLD USZOK PASS AND ITS DEFENCES

By STEVEN BURNETT,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

VIENNA, via Berlin and wireless, April 26.—Despite the attacks of Russian forces in the Carpathians, Uszok Pass and the positions defending it are still in the hands of the Austrians, the War Office announced today, flatly denying the Russian claims of victory in that region.

"Russian official bulletins relating to successes in the Carpathians are untrue," said a statement issued by the War Office.

"Despite all the efforts and sacrifices of the enemy Uszok Pass, the most important objective of the Russians, is firmly in our hands. On other fronts artillery duels continue. The situation is everywhere unchanged."

Subjoined to this statement was another repeating the official statement of April 21, announcing that the Russian attacks in an attempt to invade Hungary by way of Ondawa, Laborcza and the Ung Valley had ceased, and stating that three thousand Russians had been taken prisoners in the valley of the Upper Cirecka River.

Allies Seize Two American Ships

LONDON, April 26.—An Athens dispatch to the News says it is reported in shipping circles at Piraeus that warships of the allied fleet have captured and taken to Lemnos, the Hadji Daout line steamers Virginia and Magda, which were flying the American flag.

AUSTRIA HOLDS UP ITALIAN STEAMER

LONDON, April 26. An official dispatch to the Montenegrin consul, from Cettinje, confirms reports that the Italian steamer Yolanda was stopped and searched by an Austrian submarine near the Albanian coast.

By BRIXTON D'ALAIRE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

ROME, April 26.—"Italy will not participate in the war. By remaining neutral she will win a greater victory than would be possible were she to enter either one of the hostile camps."

This statement was made today by an official of the Italian government. A radical change in the situation has developed during the last twenty-four hours.

Important code dispatches were sent to Berlin and Vienna early today by the German and Austrian ambassadors. They are believed to have an important bearing upon Italy's foreign relations, as their transmission followed a conference between Foreign Minister Sonnino and Prince von Buelow, the German ambassador.

The official who stated that Italy would not enter the war said that a full statement of the international situation would be made by Signor Sonnino to Parliament when it convenes on May 12.

Germans Admit Using Poison Gas Bombs

LONDON, April 26.—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent sends the following special article concerning the German successes near Ypres as printed by the Frankfurter Zeitung:

"It is, indeed, possible that our bombs and shells rendered it impossible for the enemy's troops to remain in their trenches or artillery positions, and it is even probable that, in point of fact, projectiles emitting poisonous gases were employed by us, for the German army commander has permitted no doubht to exist that, as a reply to the treacherous projectiles of the English and French, which have been constantly observed for many weeks, we on our side also would employ gas bombs or whatever one may call them.

"The German army commander, moreover, declared that from German chemistry considerably more effective substances might be expected, and our army commander was right."

Zeppelin Destroyed by British at Ghent

By International News Service.

AMSTERDAM, April 26.—A Zeppelin airship was destroyed by the British aviator who bombarded the German aerodrome at Ghent on April 19, according to the Telegraaf.

A portion of The Zone at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, conceded by all who have traversed its broad walk to be the greatest amusement thoroughfare the world has ever seen. Over a mile in length, The Zone is lined on both sides by hundreds of attractions, offering every form of amusement and entertainment. Here the grown-ups and "kiddies" will find everything their heart desires in the way of relaxation, the greatest scenic and mechanical attractions ever created, being found along its course. The photograph shows but a section of the great joy-path, but some idea of its scope may be obtained. The daylight scene is enhanced a thousand fold by the nightly illumination which presents a scene never to be forgotten. Thousands are thronging the great thoroughfare daily and nightly and joy reigns supreme from the time the gates to the great Exposition are opened until they close. Compared with The Zone, the Midway at Chicago, and the Pike at St. Louis were but sideshows.

First Series "C" Coupon Appears Today

GET A FLYING START!

The important thing to remember today with the appearance of the first coupon in Series "C" is:

DOUBLE VOTE VALUE will be given FOR ALL COMPLETE CONSECUTIVE SETS.

A "consecutive set" consists of 15 coupons, one for each day in the Series, for example, one coupon of Series "B" No. 1, one coupon of Series "B" No. 2, one coupon of Series "B" No. 3, etc., up to and including Series "B" No. 15.

For every complete "consecutive set" of 15 consecutive coupons, as described above, DOUBLE VOTE VALUE will be given.

The regular face value of these 15 coupons is 42 votes, but if sent in, in one complete set, as described, within one week after the close of Series "B," they will count DOUBLE.

Of course, it is clear that the more "consecutive sets" that a contestant can get, the greater his advantage, because of the DOUBLE VOTE VALUE for "consecutive sets."

After gathering your votes and when arranging them before submitting them to the Contest Editor, do your sorting in this way: place all coupons marked "B No. 1" in one pile, count them carefully, wrap them separately in one bundle and mark on the outside of the package.

My name is* ....

My address is* ....

........No. of coupons Series "B" No. 1 contained herein.

Do precisely the same with Series "B" No. 2 coupons, the same with Series "B" No. 3 coupons, the same with Series "B" No. 4 coupons, and so on with each number up to and including Series "B" No. 15 coupon. In other words, after you have done this, you will have 15 separate and distinct bundles of coupons, each carefully wrapped and each carefully labeled with your name and address and the number of coupons of that particular series number contained therein.

For each consecutive set contained in these bundles, you will receive DOUBLE their face value.

Face value ONLY will be given for coupons which do not make up consecutive sets.

The time limit for sending in Series "B" coupons is 5 o'clock sharp on Monday, May 3rd. All votes must be delivered to the Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square, before that hour on that day or show mailing postmark at or before that time.

Many candidates were late in turning in their Series "A" coupons. There is no excuse or reason for this and it seems too bad that any candidate should lose a single vote credit because of neglecting to get the coupons in within the time set.

To correct some of the mistakes which have been made in sending in coupons, special attention is called to the following:

Have name and address and number of votes contained therein marked plainly on each bundle.

It is well to have an extra memorandum inside each bundle (of votes).

Do not mix the votes of different series when sending in coupons.

At the end of each Series and during the week allowed to gather and send in votes, please arrange to turn them in in one lot, instead of (as some did in Series "A") sending in three or four bundles one day, two or three bundles the next day and one the third day, etc., during each of the seven days allowed. This is entirely unnecessary. Send together in one lot, if possible.

Send correspondence in separate letters. Do not enclose letters asking for information with vote bundles.

Have postage fully prepaid.

Address all bundles of votes to American Expositions Contest, P. O. Box 3047, Boston, Mass. Do NOT send votes addressed to Summer street.

Collins to Face Shawkey

Rubber Contest On Today

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

We bid goodby to the Mackmen today and we won't see them again for several weeks—more than two months, in fact. Before they return we will have a pretty fair idea as to how good they are. But what is more to the point, we will know how good the Sox are.

Just at this minute we do not think the Red Sox are particularly good, but the right kind of a win, or two, might make us change our mind. There is no doubt but that they have had their share of bad luck. Players have suffered from sore eyes, sprained ankles, colds and what not. The boys left Hot Springs in good physical condition. Their mishaps have come around since that date.

Carrigan's men have played two games on home grounds and, it must be confessed, both were pretty punk games. They won the first one owing to the wildness of the opposing pitchers and a most unexpected muff of a pop fly on the part of Eddie Murphy, who was playing out of his position.

Leonard Off Form.

They lost Saturday's game because "Dutch" Leonard, who made his debut, didn't have the stuff and control. The few innings Leonard pitched will do him good, and we look for him to give a much better account of himself when he next faces the enemy. He will undoubtedly be used against the New Yorks, who follow the Athletics here tomorrow. Wild Bill has got his team started in very good shape and they have won more games thus far than the experts thought they would win.

But this is the season of the baseball year when the unexpected happens. Later on some of the teams that are away up in the race will have slumped to nothing. It is the tried and true teams like the Red Sox and Braves that will undoubtedly forge their way to the front.

Too much stress must not be laid on these early games. Fans are apt to judge a team on the first-of-the -season performances. Wait until all the pitchers get in shape and the other players have had the benefit of the warm weather that is to come.

Collins May Pitch.

For the last game with the Phillies today Carrigan may send Ray Collins to the box. This high-priced left-hander has not shown much thus far. The Mackmen handled him rather roughly when he opposed them in Philadelphia week before last. Since then he tried his hand against the Washington club and fared no better. But, unless he is to have a very bad year, he will come through very soon.

It is quite likely that Connie Mack will try Shawkey in the box. The astute manager has unearthed a little third baseman that promises to make good. His name is Sam McConnell. He cost Mack nothing. Mack has a habit of picking up boys from semi-pro, college and high school teams and developing them. McConnell appears to be a comer. He is likely to become quite a fair hitter, and his fielding will be good as soon as he gets his confidence.

The Red Sox and Athletics have divided their games 50-50 thus far. In the first series in Philadelphia each team won a game and the third battle was a tie. In Boston the Red Sox won the first and lost the second. Thus today's battle will be a kind of rubber.

By the way, the game today begins at 2:30 o'clock. This is to allow the Mackmen to catch the late afternoon train for Washington, where they open on Tuesday.

PAUL STRAND TO FACE PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The Braves and the Phillies clash in the fourth and final game of the series here this afternoon. The Phillies have a two and one margin for the series and Manager Stallings will send out his best in order to get an even break with the fast going locals.

Paul Strand, the youthful southpaw who is showing to great advantage this season, is likely to pitch for the Braves. Strand has improved wonderfully this season and he is a first class man now. Last year Strand was used mostly to finish out games but his work this season has earned him the right to start many contests and he should give the hard hitting Phillies a tough battle.

Chalmers, the come-back artist, will oppose Strand on the mound. The work of this pitcher has been a sensation thus far this season and the Philly fans have great faith in him to come through with many victories this season.

The Braves handed the Phillies their first defeat of the season on Saturday and it is Manager Stallings' hope today to make it two in a row. The Phillies had won eight straight games up to Saturday and are leading the league by a wide margin and Stallings believes it is about time to bring them down.

SORE ON MORAN.

The Braves have lost all their love to the Phillies and they all planned today to give them a good drubbing. Manager Pat Moran, of the league leaders, informed several of the Braves yesterday that waivers had been asked of them and this is against the unwritten law of baseball and has made the Philly manager unpopular with the Boston players.

The Braves appear to have hit their winning stride again. Their playing Saturday was a great improvement over their playing in the first two games of the series and they are to be feared.

Eddie Fitzpatrick, the utility second baseman, who is subbing for Captain Johnny Evers, has made a decided hit with the Philadelphia fans by his great playing. He is fielding his position in good shape and getting on the bases quite regularly.

The Braves have started to hit the ball once more and the Philadelphia pitchers are forced to work hard at all times against every man in the lineup.

PLAYERS IN SHAPE.

The Braves had a good rest yesterday and will go on the field this afternoon full of fight. Every man of them is in good shape and the local fans expect to see them start climbing very soon. The pitchers are quickly rounding into shape and it will not be long before Rudolph, James and Tyler will be taking regular turns on the mound, with Hughes, Strand, Hess and Luque filling in.

The Braves leave this city tonight for New York, where they open a four-game series with the Giants. The New York team is not playing any too well and Manager Stallings has hopes of catching up to the Phillies before the team goes home on May 6.

Crimson Oarsmen Have a Day Off

Harvard's varsity crew did not row today, Coach Wray giving the men short respite because of their fine win over Annapolis Saturday. Crew B will, however, get into action. Meyer, who has been ill with tonsilitis, is on deck again, and Harry Parkman, who quit rowing after his freshman year, has been taken into Crew B, after rowing a few times with the senior eight.

Grandstand Collapsed.

WARREN, R. I., April 26.—By the collapse of a reviewing stand at an exhibition ball game here 200 people were thrown to the ground. Only two, Miss Marie Healey and George Lanone, were severely hurt. Many others were bruised and shaken. Physicians were called and the injured taken care of.

STALLINGS FAVORS SENATORS

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—George Stallings, miracle man manager of the Boston Braves, thinks the Athletics will be lucky to finish in the first division of the American League race this year. He also thinks the Washington Senators have a fine chance for the flag?, having seen them at their best when his team met Griffith's in their exhibition series just before the season opened.

"In my opinion," said Stallings, "Griffith is in a fair way to win a pennant. Not only is his team composed of brainy men, but he has a wonderful pitching staff, and if he is blessed with such twirling as I had last year it is not necessary for him to have a wonderful hitting team."

"How did Johnson and Ayres look to you?" was asked.

"Well, Johnson did not seem to be trying very hard. There were one or two occasions when he buzzed the ball past the batter so fast that he could not see it. When he struck Evers out Johnny came back to me and remarked: "That was the fastest ball that ever passed me at the plate. I did not see it until it was on top of me, and although I wanted to swing it was too late.'

"As for Ayres, I think that the underhand ball he uses is going to be successful. Mixed in with others, it will fool many a batter. You ask me about Johnson and Ayres," said Stallings. "How about this young fellow Harper? There is a pitcher that is going to make a wonder some day. From what my players tell me he has a great curve ball and plenty of speed. All he needs is a little more experience. Griff has one of the best pitching staffs that I ever looked at, and the best part of it all is that it is composed of comparatively young men."

GEORGE DUNCAN TO PLAY HERE

LONDON, April 26.—In addition to Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, two more of the leading English golfers will sail for America May 15 by the Lusitania.

George Duncan, the Hanger Hill professional, and C. H. Mayo of Burhill have decided definitely to compete in the open championship at Baltusrol in June. It was no surprise to hear that Mayo was to accompany Duncan, as the pair have been connected many times in foursome games in different parts of the country. While not a brilliant player, the Burhill professional can be relied upon to put up a useful game.

J. H. Taylor and James Braid will make their decisions known by the end of this week. It is anticipated here that they will be in the party.

WILLARD'S LIFE STORY

◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆

Fought Own Battle and Won Out

◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆ ◆◆◆

AS TOLD BY HIMSELF

By ED W. SMITH.

Well Known Fight Referee and Ring Expert.

Herewith is presented the twelfth and final instalment of Jess Willard's story of his own life, "How I Won the Championship." The first instalment appeared in the AMERICAN of Tuesday, April 13.

His story covers the Kansas Giant's private and ring life completely from his birth up to and including the now famous Havana battle.

HOW I WON THE TITLE—NO. 12.

Many people have told me that I was lucky to get the match with Jack Johnson, going on the basis that the first big, strong, young fellow, who managed to get the proper backing and financial support could have whipped the black champion.

In a way this is so, but it must not be forgotten that I had been pointing myself toward a Johnson match for more than two years before it came off. That is why I took the unusual pains to secure Tom Jones as my manager, because I knew he was a man used to handling big affairs and was able to get other big people to help him if necessary.

That is what brought about the idea of the syndicate which was formed in New York. We knew as soon as the original plan was formed between Jones and me that we would need a lot of money, because the match was one of peculiar conditions. We found plenty of backing after we got Jack Curley into the case, and then it was not hard—only a matter of time and money to carry out our plan.

All along I have sung the praises of the game men who went through this thing for and with me, but now that I am doing something myself I am going to remind the people of America that it took a little gameness on my part to swallow all the disappointments we got at different times and keep right on training.

Disappointed by First Postponement.

Take the jolt at El Paso for instance. That came after a siege of training that might well-nigh have taken the heart out of the gamest man in the world. It is true that I kicked over the traces there once because I feared the whole thing was going to smash. It looked that way when Johnson was induced by the Havana people not to go to Mexico.

But again the gameness of the promoters was shown and everything finally turned out as we had hoped for.

Things that favored me most in my training for the Johnson fight was the fact that I had some of the greatest training mates that a candidate for the title ever got togeher. In Tex O'Rourke, Jim Savage, Walter Monohan and Jack Hemple I hod four men that not only were the most capable that could be found in an athletic sense, but were in addition to that the greatest jolliers I ever saw.

Mind you, these men are with you when you are training, not only in the ring and gymnasium work which consumes only a small portion of the day, but with you almost every other hour, day and night. It takes patience and fortitude to stand what you have to stand during the nine weeks—that's a mighty long time when you come to think it over—that we were together.

Trainers Were Great Aid to Win Bout.

Yet there never was a ruction of any sort. They jollied me along, talking me out of discouragements, standing my abuse wonderfully and always being there with helpful suggestions and discussions that made me feel that they were working for my best interests.

And I want to say that they deserve the highest praise possible from me because they, as much as I, played a big hand victory.

The only serious accident that befell the camp during the whole time. I hurt my forearm and it gave me a lot of bother, only a week before the match, too. But luckily we came out nicely.

Willard Fought Own Battle and Won Out.

In closing let me say that in the Havana ring I fought my own battle throughout. We had had a number of councils of war before and I outlined to the camp just what I intended to do in every known contingency. It was agreed then so complete a grasp did I have on the possible situations that I should fight my own fight. I did this and I proved a winning combination.

The fight was slow at all times, but I did not care about that as I was in to win if it took all afternoon. And now I thank all of my friends for sticking to me as they did. I'll try and reward them by defending my title always.

Evers Out of Game for Next Six Weeks

TROY, N. Y., April 26.—Johnny Evers, captain and star second sacker of the Boston Braves, who Manager Stallings declares is the keystone of the world's championship team, is suffering from a broken bone in his left ankle, and will not be able to rejoin his team for at least six weeks.

At the time of the accident Evers himself thought he had broken a bone, and a subsequent X-ray examination bears him out. The truth leaked out here today, though when seen at his home here Evers refused to have anything to say.

JEANETTE MEETS M'VEY TOMORROW

By JACK CONWAY.

SAM M'VEY, the dusky Californian heavyweight, is in our midst today. McVey is here to complete training for his twelve-round bout with Joe Jeanette which will be held before the Atlas A. A. tomorrow night. He worked out at Steve O'Donnell's gymnasium today and may take a light workout tomorrow morning.

There are few heavyweights who are better known than McVey. He was born in California thirty years ago and has been earning a livelihood by the power of his fists since 1902. During this time McVey has clashed with many of the world's leading heavyweights.

McVey was one of the few men who would meet Jack Johnson when the latter was at his best in 1903 and 1904. Johnson was then a supple-limbed, clear-eyed athlete and did not experience much trouble in defeating his opponents. He only weighed 195 pounds and moved around the ring with the speed of a panther and the grace of a dancing master.

THE first tussle between Johnson and McVey was held in Los Angeles on February 27, 1903. It lasted twenty rounds and the former heavyweight champion was declared the winner when the final shot had been fired. Johnson and McVey met again on October 27, 1903, and Johnson was awarded the verdict at the end of twenty rounds. It was a thrilling fight and the Galveston black was forced to display all of his remarkable ability as a boxer in order to grab off the decision. The final battle between Johnson and McVey was held in San Francisco on August 22, 1904, Johnson winning by a knockout in twenty rounds. Johnson was probably a greater fighter at the time he knocked out McVey than he was at any time during his long career in the ring.

THERE are few heavyweights who are greater rivals than Jeanette and McVey. They have engaged in a number of furious battles and have usually given a fine account of themselves. Their hardest whirls were held in France. They engaged in three fights in Paris in 1909. When boxers meet that many times in a single year, there are many "fans" who will declare that the contests were "fixed." It is impossible, however, to charge either Jeanette or McVey with any dishonest work in their bouts against each other.

ONE of their bouts was called a draw at the end of thirty rounds. In another Jeanette won the decision in twenty rounds while Joe managed to score a knockout blow in the third meeting after forty-nine frames of terrific going. McVey had all the best of the battle during the first twenty rounds. Jeanette, however, was the stronger of the two boxers and his wonderful strength enabled him to breeze in a winner. This bout was one of the longest which has been held in recent years.

Why is a man like a watch? Because when he gets run down he can blame it on the spring.

If the spring has caught you and you feel fagged, it might be a good plan to take an occasional glass of that delightful brew of good, ripe, natural products, rich, reputable and reviving,

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—I told you we would get to those Phillies. We handed them a few jolts on Saturday and propose to keep up the good work today. The further the season goes the nearer James and Tyler will be in shape to pitch. When they are good and ready, look out for us. That's all I have to say along those lines.

* * *

The boys spent a quiet Sunday and had a good rest. We are all glad that Stallings has secured Dick Egan to help out. We are now well fortified for any accident that comes along for Dick can play any infield position and play it well.

* * *

I am sending you an interesting interview with Connie Mack in relation to Frank Baker, which was printed in one of the Philadelphia newspapers. It reads as folows:

"Baker cannot make a fool of me," declared Mack, "and if he thinks he can have a little jaunt in the Delaware County League and then at his pleasure report to me and expect to find a place on my team, he has made the mistake of his life.

"I am not going to be bluffed or held up, I'm willing to start all over again and build up a team. That's my pleasure in life, taking a young player and developing him. I've done it before and I can do it again, so I am not going to lose any sleep over Baker.

* * *

"Baker made a solemn statement to the public in which he said he was quitting baseball because he didn't like traveling. Yet, in spite of this, he signs a contract with Upland. He will return to Trappe after playing his game with Upland, so I have read.

"I went from Philadelphia to Trappe once, and I want to tell you that it was the hardest, weariest trip I ever took. I would much prefer to take a ride to St. Louis than to Trappe. Yet Baker is going to take this trip regularly, although he talks of the hardships of traveling on the special Pullmans we have for our players.

* * *

"Baker can never get on my club a month hence. He will be out of organized baseball by that time. I don't know whether I would take him tomorrow. More than one fan has expressed himself to me about Baker.

"Every one is sore on him, for he had a chance to join us when we were going bad and help pull us out of our slump, but he signed with Upland instead. But don't think I'm sore. I'll have a third baseman for the Athletics all right."

The Cardinals had a chance last Summer to buy Shortstop Bancroft from the Coast League. The opportunity was ignored because the Coast Leaguers wouldn't give a written guarantee that Bancroft would make good. Philadelphia gambled on this player, and he is considered the brightest star in the N. L. circuit this Spring.

MACK'S MANAGER OUT WITH DEFI

Leo P. Flynn has taken his best little typewriter in hand and written us a long essay in which he says a few kind words about Frank Mack, the clever Beachmont lightweight, and incidentally gives his opinion about Matty Baldwin, Gilbert Gallant and Eddie Murphy. Leo is an intellectual young citizen and when it comes to composing a statement he is in the same class with Bill Shakespeare.

Flynn believes that Mack is entitled to a bout with Baldwin, Murphy or Gallant, and we do not hesitate in seconding his motion.

Penn State Ready for Eastern Trip

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 26.—With an unbroken string of victories to its credit, Penn State's baseball team will this week undergo the crucial test of the season on its annual Eastern trip. Beginning with Lafayette, the Blue and White ball tossers will successively meet Dartmouth, Vermont, the Army and Princeton in as many days.

State's pitching string of Liebert, Wardwell and Hesselbacher, supported by Johnson, the freshman southpaw, is Coach Harley's best bet for winning the series.

"Shorty" Miller, the State's sensational quarterback and captain of the 1913 eleven, is assisting Coach Harlow in the Spring football practice.

Security Trust Co. Sells to Me the Stock of Hartford's Leading Tailor for Spot Cash!!

A high priced tailor's death is recorded at the start of the busy season. His stock of woolens was complete. There isn't a tailor in this city, and this is my honest belief, who carried as many styles as this stock shows, and the names of the tickets placed on these goods are names noted in this country for quality, style and integrity. John B. Ellison & Son, Philadelphia, dominetes. I notice a number of the Shackmaxon selvages and other names equally as well known in the woolen world.

A representative of the Security Trust Company, appointed by the court as administrators to sell these goods, tells me his prices were $25 to $40, and, judging by the quality of the stock, I think the latter price is about what a tailor buying merchandise from these houses should charge.

I made it plain to the Security Trust Company that I wasn't hungry for woolens and only bought them on their acceptance of a cash proposition, real money, whereby I own the goods for about 20% of their original cost. That means that all the water is squeezed out of these woolens. It means that when I sell you a suit of this goods for $10.75 the average customer is getting a great bargain, Mitchell the Tailor is reaping his regular 10% profit, and I make a customer for future sales.

There are plenty of these goods, thousands of styles. You can buy as many suits as you like at this price, or as many odd trousers as you care to purchase for $3.25 a pair, or I will sell the goods by the yard; and I won't ask whether you are a tailor or not.

(Signed)

MITCHELL THE TAILOR.

BLUE AND BLACK CLAY that must have brought in this stock $35.00. My Price................ $10.75

FINE SILK MIXED WORSTEDS that must have been sold in this stock for $35.00. My Price............ $10.75

FANCY WORSTEDS in all the neat colorings that sold from $25.00 to $40.00. My Price.............. $10.75

COVERT and other COATINGS FOR TOP-COATS, and judging by the quality of the goods and the name of the commission house that sold them, it would be necessary to charge $35.00. My Price........ $10.75

Three hundred styles worsted trouserings—I don't care how particular you are, you should be satisfied with this range of goods. They must have been bought to sell for $8.00 or $10.00. My Price................ $3.25

TROUSERS

Reserve your opinion on trouserings. These cloths were bought to sell for $10.00. From the basis of quality, if $12 or $14 were charged for some of them, I would not consider it high. They are worsteds, heavyweights, lightweights and medium-weights, cloths that will stand up forever. Words cannot describe the variety of colorings. Then there are ends of black silk mixtures, ends of black unfinished worsteds, black and blue clay, ends just enough for a pair of trousers. My price, take your pick, $3.25. Get in early and get the better selection.

Zoe---The Story of a Great Love

Zoe Agrees to Meet Crawley in London in Order to Straighten the Terrible Tangle.

(Copyright, Associated Newspapers, Ltd. Serial rights in U. S. A. held by International News Service.)

(By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN.)

"I DID not know myself," she said faintly.

"You did not know!" he exclaimed incredulously. "Surely Brooke must have mentioned my name?"

"I don't remember ever hearing him mention you until just now, when he came up to my room and told me that he had brought his old friend Noel Crawley down to stay the night."

"Is that true?"

"I swear it! Oh, how can you doubt it. I have never lied to you!"

"What did you think when you heard that?"

"Think!" She commenced to laugh hysterically. "I—I think? I—oh, I don't know. Anyhow, you have seen how I behaved. Surely you cannot complain? Oh, Noel, don't look at me like that! You will kill me if you do! Don't—for pity's sake, don't. Oh, you are cruel—you are horribly cruel! I am only a woman. Have pity——"

"Hush! For Heaven's sake, pull yourself together!"

It was the man who was strong now; the woman who was weak and nerveless.

"Yes, yes," she panted, "I am foolish; but I will be brave. You need not be frightened, Noel; I promise."

"When can I see you—where? I must! Don't you understand?"

"Tonight," she said; "later on, when he is asleep."

"No, no," exclaimed Crawley; "I won't run any such foolish risk."

"He would never know," she pleaded. "I must see you tonight. Oh, why didn't you let me do it? Why—Why? I should have been at peace now, and——"

"You are mad! I tell you I will not run any risk of compromising you or myself."

"Then tomorrow," she said quickly.

"Where?"

"I will be at Grosvenor road at 4. We shall all be going up in the morning. Godfrey has an appointment in the city in the afternoon. It will be easy."

Crawley hesitated.

"It is horribly dangerous," he said. "Can't we meet somewhere else? Can't I see you here?"

"Oh, you are a coward, Noel!" Her voice quivered with scorn.

"I tell you," he retorted fiercely, "one thing I am determined on; Brooke shall never know."

"He never shall—if you do not wish it."

"Can't you see how horribly you have wronged him? Can't you see that he loves you beyond anything on earth, that you are all his world to him. Why, if he knew, if—why, woman alive, it would kill him!"

"Yes, I believe it would kill him," she said solemnly. "But quick, Noel, tell me: We shan't have another chance. Shall it be four, there, or—Hush!" She dabbed her handkerchief to her eyes and braced herself. There were footsteps in the hall. Brooke was returning. Crawley looked anxiously at the woman. "Remember," he whispered, "he must never know!"

"You can trust me," she answered. "And it is four tomorrow?"

"Yes," breathed the man.

The door opened, and Brooke entered the drawing room.

"Hullo!" he exclaimed, in his brusque, breezy way, "I thought you'd be having a drink!"

"I have been showing Mr. Crawley these sixteenth century Italian drawings I bought the other day," said Diana Brooke, bending over a portfolio. "He says he thinks that some of them are really valuable."

"I'm sure they are!" exclaimed Crawley rather wildly.

BROOKE KEEPS DILATING ON HIS HAPPINESS.

"Oh, well, they're beyond me," laughed Brooke. I'm no artist, am I, Crawley? Give me nature and—incidently—a whiskey-and-soda. Come on, Di, let's go to the smoking room and have a nightcap." He put his arm around his wife's waist. "Crawley, my son," he exclaimed, do you wonder that I'm the happiest man in all the world, eh?"

"Not a bit," said Crawley, forcing a smile into his face and some sort of expression into his hollow voice, though in his soul all the fiends of hell made pandemonium.

"There's nothing like marriage, Crawle. Take my tip. By the way, Di, the little girl, I didn't tell you, did I, that Crawley's contemplating entering upon the marriage state?"

The woman turned and gave the artist a look of smiling inquiry. That look was a triumph of art.

"Indeed, Mr. Crawley!" she exclaimed. "Who is the fortunate lady?"

"Eva Warren," said Brooke, "daughter of Sir Squire Warren. Isn't that so, Crawley?"

The artist bowed his assent. He could not trust himself to speak.

"When is the happy event to take place?" asked Diana Brooke as they walked across the hall to the smoking room; but Crawley was silent.

"It isn't officially announced yet," said Brooke.

"I see," said Diana Brooke; and Crawley detected a change in her voice—a hard, almost defiant note.

FOR A MOMENT THEIR EYES MET

He gave her a furtive sidelong glance. For a moment their eyes met, and he saw in hers what he had seen in the rooms in London earlier that night, and heard her parting words:

"I swear by all I hold sacred that on the day you marry Eva Warren I will kill myself!"

Mad, wild, irresponsible words of an overwrought and hysterical woman; but they impressed him deeply. He could not get them out of his mind.

"I shouldn't be surprised," laughed Brooke, "that we shall see the engagement announced in tomorrow's Times, eh, Crawley?" Didn't you say so?"

Crawley did not breathe freely until after 1 o'clock the next day, when he parted from Mr. and Mrs. Brooke on the platform of Waterloo Station.

Brooke used his best endeavors to persuade his friend to join them at lunch. They were lunching at the Savoy; afterward Brooke had a business appointment in the city concerning some African gold concessions he was negotiating, and then Mrs. Brooke was going shopping. They were to meet at Waterloo at 7 to go down to Hatchington in time for an 8 o'clock dinner.

But Crawley resisted his friend's invitation to lunch, pleading an important appointment at his studio. He thanked them both warmly for their hospitality and promised to go down to The Laurels and stay for a few days at an early date. He said he had immensely enjoyed his fling visit, and would have loved to have lunched with them, and all manner of proper and conventional things.

Stuffing for Pillows

In British Honduras the natives have discovered that nature has provided them with splendid material for pillows and mattresses in the pollack tree. It is a common soft-wood-growth, with a large pear-shaped fruit, which has a hard shell, changing to almost black when ripe, and contains a short staple brown fluff or silk fibre. The fluff is about a quarter of an inch long, more like the finest of camel's hair than fibre, and is used extensively for filling pillows and mattresses. It will not lump, even after years of service. The natives occasionally expose it to the sunlight for a day or two and put it back again as good as ever.

A Chinese Ceremonial

Chinese methods in building are much the same now as they were a thousand years ago, except in treaty ports, where modern influence has made progress. It has long been a ceremonial custom to pound the earth preparatory to erecting a new building. A ring of coolies, or "fokies," each at the end of a rope which terminates in a large stone in the centre, sway inward and outward, allowing the stone to rise and fall upon the ground. The work is accompanied by a weird sing-song, and the whole procedure is considered as being propitious to the lives of those who will inhabit the structure which is to be built.

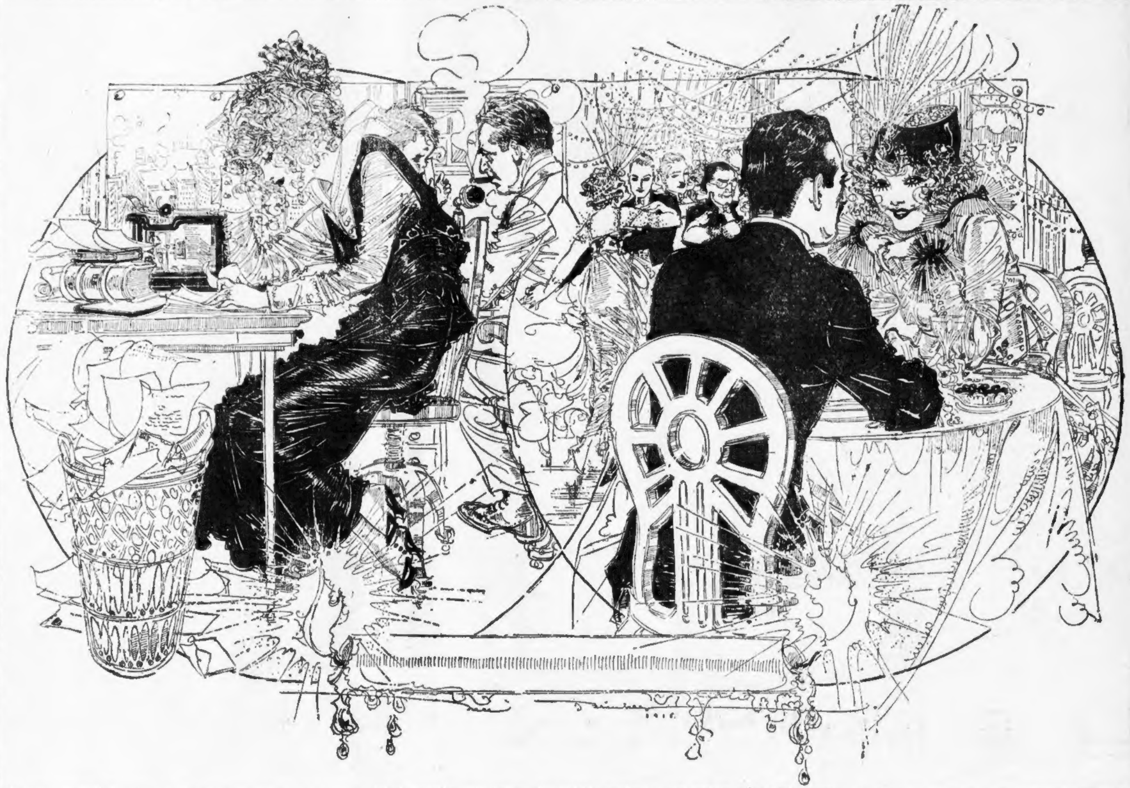
"Burning the Candle at Both Ends"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.



IT soon burns to the middle, it does. Just twice as fast as it would if you let one end rest between whiles. If your white candle, fat with youth, stands unlighted all day long—as some fortunate (?) maids' do—then, Mademoiselle, you can touch the match to it night after night, blaze away at the rallies of fun that begin after twilight has purpled the big town. But the bright candle of Youth is so apt to flare and glow with all its strength—it doesn't save—it dances and burns and glows and uses its core as fast as it can. And if you are one of the great swarm that fills the early morning trains on the way to the hive—if you peg away in crowded, humming offices and shops all day long—burning your candle—please believe me, for I know—at its hightest and brightest from eight in the morning until five and six at night—burning it hotly, brightly, so your little shine may stand as high and as steady and make as big a circle of light in the working world as the other candles that burn—then leave one end in the firm socket and leave your candle dark most nights. For if you work—and aren't there a lot of us—what?—and get a step nearer the heights your eyes are on—if you even keep the shelf you have won—you have to burn your candle all day long. And you can't burn it at the other end, bright and hard, half the night long, without getting to the middle in a hurry—or else the working end goes out.

It's an old-told tale, and it's been robed in many words to make the dose taste differently, but, just the same, sleep is the high god a girl should worship. He gives her the shine in her eyes—the clear brain that can think in a straight line—the steady hand—poise—surety—and keeps Youth laughing from her eyes. Don't use too much of your treasure—Night! A little—and then climb into your bed and lose yourself—quite dark. If you do that your candle will sit in its golden socket—and when you play you will use of the glowing end that burns by day. But if you look about over your shoulder at Destiny and—when he isn't looking—light your rich torch at the other end, too, your entire light will burn out quickly—and of day-times the blaze will be wavery and dazed and low. No girl has done it yet and won—so how can you?—NELL BRINKLEY.

A Man and His Wife

John Misses a Chance to Escort Mrs. Simmons Home After the Party

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

"IT'S been a very nice evening," Adelaide Simmons told her hostess. The widow and Ella Sanger were putting on their wraps in Isabel's room. "You've been a surprise to me, my dear," she went on. "I had no idea you could dance, or play, nor that you could serve such a dinner."

The tone was patronizing, but Isabel smilingly ignored it. "None of those things requires any especial amount of cleverness, does it?" she asked politely.

Mrs. Simmons smiled too. "Well, I think it requires a certain amount of savoir faire and of social poise," she remarked.

"And you thought I was lacking in both?" Isabel queried, as if amused. At heart she resented this woman's speech and manner, but she would not show that she did.

"Oh, my dear, I don't mean that!" Mrs. Simmons hastened to explain. "But you have always seemed so quiet and so fond of quiet things. Then, too, Jack's change in his manner of living since his marriage has made me think you did not care for society."

"On the contrary, I like it," Isabel said. "But John has preferred to stay at home until lately. Now that the ice is broken, we shall probably go out more. I have many friends whom I want to entertain. Perhaps," with an apologetic laugh, "I have seemed a bit quiet and retiring because I have the diffidence that most young wives feel at first about entertaining. For," she added, "I am, after all, very young."

She looked it as she stood there—young and almost defiant—her face flushed, her hair slightly roughened from dancing, her eyes bright.

While Adelaide Simmons was not a hard-hearted woman, she was a vain and selfish one. Gazing at this pretty creature so much her junior she was conscious of a sharp pang for her own lost youth, and a sudden resentment at the arrogance of the young. She must say something to let this girl know that there were other things than youth that made for success.

SHE MAKES AN ALMOST INSULTING OBSERVATION

"You are coming on famously," she said encouragingly, "and I am glad. Jack has been a pet of mine so long that it would hurt me if he were married to a girl of whom he could not feel proud, and who did not try to please him. By the way," glancing at the pale blue gown that was Isabel's only dinner toilette, "how beautifully that dress cleaned! I suppose you always wear it in the evening because Jack is so fond of it?"

A hard glint flashed from Isabel's eyes. "No," she retorted, "I wear it because it is the only handsome evening gown I have!"

"It is the prettiest dress I have seen in a long while," broke in Ella Sanger. "You have made us other women look old and faded, my dear—as we really are. To see such a lovely home as you have, and such a happy pair as you and your husband are, almost makes me regret my spinsterhood."

With a sudden impulse of gratitude, Isabel took the speaker's hand in hers. She had thought of this woman as uninteresting and rather loud, but now she regretted her uncharitable judgment of her. "You are so sweet and kind, Miss Sanger," she murmured, "that I am actually sorry for the man who did not succeed in getting you."

Her voice broke nervously and there was a soft light in her eyes.

"Come, Ella!" Mrs. Simmons spoke sharply. "The taxi is here."

"But I am not going in the taxi," her cousin announced. "Thank you just as much. I have accepted Mr. Marsh's offer to take me home."

"How silly!" commented Adelaide. "You'll have the discomfort of a ride in a trolley instead of in a cab."

"It's a beautiful night and I'll not mind," Miss Sanger assured her.

She and Marsh had taken their departure before Adelaide Simmons bade adieu to her hosts.

"It's been a really delightful evening," she said to Isabel. "Good night, my dear. I shall hope to see you both at my house soon."

"You are not going home alone?" John protested.

"Oh, I have a taxi here, you know," she said.

But he started toward the hat rack. "Even so, I can't let you go home alone at this time of night," he insisted. "I will go with you."

Perhaps Henry Dennis saw the change that crossed the wife's face, for he interposed quickly.

JOHN IS PREVENTED FROM ACTING AS ESCORT

"Pardon me, Hamilton," he said, "but I have made my plans to accompany Mrs. Simmons home. You remember promising to let me do so, don't you Addie?"

Adelaide Simmons tried to laugh, yet she flushed so hotly that the natural color overflowed the rouge on her cheeks. "I really don't remember," she said, "but if you make the assertion, I suppose it's true. No, Jack, I don't need you. Be a good boy and stay here where you belong with your wife. "Ah," patting Isabel's shoulder playfully, "you see, my dear, that although you may boast to me of how much younger you are than I am, one of the compensations that I have at my age is that I am never lacking for escorts.

"And the best part of it is that a woman of my years may accept attention from as many men as she wishes without indiscretion. And the men are not afraid to pay such attentions. At your age, child, one has not these advantages. But, cheer up, perhaps the best is still to come for you too!"

Isabel did not see the necessity for John's accompanying his guests all the way downstairs to the front door, yet she expressed no objection when he did so. And when he returned, and going up to her, put his arm about her, and kissed her, she did not draw away.

"It was a beautiful party," he said enthusiastically. "I was proud of my little wife, of the dinner, of the service—of everything."

"Thank you," she said simply. She would not dampen his pleasure by speaking any of the things that were perturbing her mind. For this night she would ignore his failings as he was ignoring hers. She was glad he had liked the dinner, glad that he was satisfied, glad, most of all, that he had not taken too much liquor this evening. She had been afraid that he might take more than was quite safe.

"I, too, think that everything went off satisfactorily," she remarked. "And now, as I am very tired, I am going to bed, John."

Yes—her first dinner party had been a success. Yet she was conscious of a heartache which she could not quite banish.

(To Be Continued.)

Bull-Tail Twisting

In the interior of Venezuela and Colombia toro coleado is a feature of fiesta days. A principal street of the town is roped off, and a wild bull is liberated. From eight to ten mounted horsemen enter the improvised arena, their only defence against attacks of the bull being their superb horsemanship and knowledge of how to twist the bull's tail in such a manner as to cause him to tumble over. While the attention of the bull is attracted by some of the party, a horseman dashes from the rear at full speed, gives a dexterous twist, and over rolls the bull. This sport is not without its danger, and almost every coleado festival adds to the hospital list. The honor of being champion bull-tail twister develops keen competition, for the winner is crowned with flowers by the prettiest girl in the village. Some performers become so expert as to be sure of their twist at a specified point, the great achievement being to bring the animal to the dust just in front of the balcony of one's lady love.

A Superior Person

Artist angrily—Why did you sky my "Portrait of a Gentleman?" Can't see it without a stepladder! Secretary of Hanging Committee — Very sorry; but, you see, he looks like the sort of person who would feel more comfortable up there than on a level with ordinary people!

Jewels That Do Not Shine

And How They Can Be Made to Scintillate

FEW women know how to keep their jewelry bright. The majority never considers that the stones lose half their brilliancy because they are choked with particles of dirt.

All plain gold brooches, bracelets and pendants should be washed in soap and water, dried and given a final polish with chamois.

If diamonds are very dirty they should be brushed gently with warm water and a little soap and cleaned by rubbing with eau-de-cologne.

Pearls and turquoises should never be put in water, as they are apt to lose their color. Methylated spirits is the best cleanser for these stones.

Opals are very delicate stones and should be cleaned with a powder obtainable from the jewelers. Too much heat often makes opals crack.

Jet ornaments may be cleaned by rubbing with olive oil, afterward a final polish with chamois.

Diamonds signify light, innocence, life and joy; rubies, divine power and love, dignity and royalty; sapphires, all heavenly virtues; emeralds, hopes of immortality; pearls, purity, innocence and humility; amethysts, earthly sufferings and truth unto death.

Pearls are the ideal stones for fair women, and especially for young girls, while diamonds are most becoming to dark-haired women.

Sound Counsel

The successful man of business was giving his son sound advice.

"My boy," said he, "whatever you do, don't brag."

"No father," said the young man dutifully.

"At least, not until after you have done it."

"And then?"

"Then," said the father slowly, "if you were clever enough to do it really well, you will be clever enough to know that it's not worth bragging about."

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

USE ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two Anti-kamnia Tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one Anti-kamnia Tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet.

Anti-kamnia may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all pain.

ECZEMA ITCHED ALL THE TIME

Tortured for 12 Years. Jar of Resinol Ointment, with Resinol Soap Cured.

Dec. 11, 1914.—"I was tortured with eczema for about 12 years. From my ankles to my knees I was covered with blisters which would ooze a watery substance and then dry up and scale off something like fish scales. My legs and feet were fiery red and would swell up so that I could not get my shoes on. They would itch and burn all the time, and worse at night, when I would wake up scratching and bleeding.

Relieved Almost at Once

"I tried every remedy recommended for eczema but without any benefit. I can't say too much in praise of what Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap have done for me. It relieved almost at once, and a 50c jar of Resinol Ointment and less than a cake of Resinol Soap completely cured my trouble. I am in my 87th year." (Signed) D. L. Lindsey, 213 E. Day St., Denison, Tex. Every druggist sells Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. For trial, free, write to Dept. 19-R, Resinol, Baltimore.

GRIFFITH ASSAILS FILM PLAY BILL

The conflict over the film play, "The Birth of a Nation," was renewed today at a legislative hearing on the bill introduced by Representative Lewis R. Sullivan, which would make it a criminal offence to produce any "show or entertainment which tends to excite racial or religious prejudice or tends to a breach of the public peace."

D. W. Griffith, author and proprietor of the photoplay, issued a statement defending his production and attacking the Sullivan bill. He said:

"The Sullivan bill is astounding! Actually an effort is being made to rush through the General Court, under suspension of the rule, House bill No. 2,077 which would make it a criminal offence to produce 'any show or entertainment which tends to excite racial or religious prejudice, or tends to a breach of the public peace.' Not only have the rules been suspended to jam it through, but the second section provides that, immediately and without further notice to any property rights involved, 'this act shall take effect upon its passage.'

"Probably it has never occured to the supporters of this measure that universal dramatic art is practically impossible without the excitation of some degree of race or religious feeling. How unwise to drag race or religion into the realm of censorship! It is unwritten law that neither of these matters belong to legislative regulation, but are reserved within the clause of the Constitution that grants freedom of speech. If the Sullivan bill be enacted, the civic authorities and the courts will find themselves in very deep waters. They will be censoring racial and religious matters that do not possibly concern them.

CITES RECENT PLAYS.

"The Jew that finds himself prejudged in the eyes of the community by 'The Merchant of Venice' or 'The Children of the Ghetto;' the German whose sensibilities are offended by 'The Hypen' or 'Marie-Odile' or 'Inside the Lines' of this season's plays; the Italian stung by 'The Vendetta,' the Irishman who dislikes Bernard Shaw's 'John Bull and His Other Island,' the Yankee disliking 'Way Down East' caricatures, the Russian miffed by 'The Yellow Ticket' and the Oriental hurt by 'The Tyhpoon' or 'Mr. Wu,' will rush into the courts of the Commonwealth for sympathy, vengeance and redress.

"I do not mean that all the representatives of the various American stocks will do this, but the opportunity opened up for petty persecution and spite against the theatrical producers and managers is almost endless.

"On the religious side, the consequences will be more momentous and lamentable. Even the great religious operas will be barred from the Opera House. From the wonderful 'Passion Play' of Oberammergau to the latest drama dealing with the spirit world or some faith cult, not one but is open to objection from its more bitter opponents. One man's orthodoxy is another man's heterodoxy. One man's 'judgment' is another man's 'prejudice.' Why, then, this idle talk of 'religious prejudice?'

OBJECT IS TO DESTROY PLAY.

"The truth is, hardly anyone seems to have considered seriously the far-reaching consequences of this rash project. The clause, tending to 'a breach of the public peace' opens up the way for any disgruntled or venomous adversaries to start a disturbance in a theatre lobby and thereby get a play suppressed. The real purpose of the bill is to destroy one film play, 'The Birth of a Nation.'

"Shall this magnificent Civil War and reconstruction drama be stopped in Boston at the behest of an insignificant minority? Shall Lewis and Trotter and Puller and Wilson tell the legislators of Massachusetts and the people of Boston what to do?

"We respect the colored people of this city and Commonwealth. But in this controversy those who have tried to rush class legislation of the above character, for the arbitrary purpose of suppressing one play, have been most badly advised. No good will ultimately come to the race through an attempted hushing-up of reconstruction memories.

"Special class legislation should not be allowed for one instant in the free State of Massachusetts. The senators and representatives should not make themselves the laughing stock of the country by enacting such a travesty of law and justice."

ELIOT JOINS PROTEST.

The photoplay was attacked at a meeting in the First Parish Unitarian Church in Harvard Square. It was criticized also at a meeting in the Twelfth Baptist Church in Shawmut avenue. In Cambridge Dr. Charles W. Eliot joined the protest. Other speakers were the Rev. George L. Cady, former Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Lewis, the Rev. Benjamin W. Swain, the Rev. Powhatan Bagnall and the Rev. Samuel McCord Crothers.

The Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins of the Central Congregational Church in Jamaica Plain defended the production.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were firm at the opening and a good many buying orders had accumulated over Sunday. Among the most active issues in New York at the start were: American Can, Mexican Petroleum, U. S. Steel and Amalgamated. Among early gains in the big market were Amalgamated ⅛, American Can 1⅛, American Smelting ½, Chino ½, New Haven 1⅛, Northern Pacific ¾, Reading ex-dividend ⅛, Southern Pacific ⅝, St. Paul ⅝, Utah Copper ¼, Bethlehem Steel 1, Goodrich ⅞, Mexican Petroleum ¾, Rock Island ¾ and Baldwin Locomotive 1.

Among declines in New York were Canadian Pacific ½, Union Pacific ⅛, U. S. Steel ⅛ and American Locomotive ⅛.

PRICE CHANGES HERE.

The Boston market was strong and among issues which advanced were Boston Elevated ½, Calumet & Arizona 1½, Butte & Superior 1, Copper Range 1¼, Granby 3, North Butte ⅝, Quincy 1, American Zinc ⅝, Superior 1⅛ and Mohawk 1.

SOME PROSPERITY SIGNS.

Many railroad managements believe that business prospects in this country are now so good they can afford to provide their roads with needed equipment. The Pennsylvania is taking the lead. It is going to spend $20,000,000 in new equipment for lines East and West this year, and it is estimated that orders of a similar kind by other roads will bring expenditures by all to a total of at least $50,000,000 in 1915. The aggregate may be much larger. Many roads are going to spend millions if traffic increases the way it is expected to do.

"MEXICAN PETE" CONTRACTS.

It is intimated by President E. L. Hoheney of the Mexican Petroleum Company that the contracts made by his corporation with British interests call for practically its whole output of crude oil in Mexico. Its output there is estimated at about 70,000,000 barrels a year.

Somerville to Be "Dry" from May 1

The express business in Somerville bids fair to take a boom about May 1 as a result of the abolishment of druggists' liquor licenses there.

The campaign of the Somerville Civic League last Fall resulted in the election of a majority of the Board of Aldermen pledged against granting sixth-class licenses.

As a result, the druggists who have sought renewal of their licenses this year have been given "leave to withdraw."

HAIL HEARST AID FOR BELL'S TRIP

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—Wide publicity is being given in the East to the patriotic pilgrimage of Liberty Bell, soon to start from Philadelphia to the Panama Exposition. Nearly every Sunday newspaper of importance along the Atlantic seaboard carried a page story yesterday which related the history of the sacred relic and indorsed the arrangements for the transcontinental trip.

It is freely asserted here that no movement yet started has accomplished so much along publicity lines for the exposition. Mr. Hearst, through whose influence the plan to take the bell West was made a success, is being given full measure of praise for his efforts.

All details of arrangements for the trip will be settled by the close of the present week. This work will fall to the several committees which will be appointed immediately.

AROUSES PATRIOTISM.

John M. Walton, Comptroller of Philadelphia, is only one of a number of prominent men who have openly asserted that great good will be accomplished both for the country at large and the exposition by sending the bell to San Francisco. Mr. Walton was a guest of the committee which escorted the old relic to Charleston. He said:

"A great many people who regard the bell as a fabulous creation of our imiginative ancestors will actually have a chance of seeing it, and their patriotism will be aroused. After all there is no danger in shipping the bell. The railroads will take every precaution against accident and the bell itself, as on former trips, will be securely supported on air cushions so that the jarring will not affect it.

"On previous trips the demonstration of reverence and thankfulness by the people in all sections visited for an opportunity to see the bell was most impressive. One incident on the trip to Charleston will never be forgotten by those of our party.

"In a small town in South Carolina, where there was an asylum for blind children, the little boys and girls were led out to the railroad track and lifted to the car one by one so that they could feel the bell which they could not see nor hear.

"In many other towns and cities school children came to the railroad with an armful of flowers which they pelted piously at the bell."

REVERENCE FOR BELL.

John J. Ridgway, another Philadelphia official, tells how Jefferson Davis, with uncovered head, paid homage to Liberty Bell when it was taken to New Orleans.

Isaac B. Elliott was on the committee on the escort when the bell went to St. Louis. He said:

"On our way home from St. Louis there were great demonstrations at every stop. At Indianapolis 200,000 people congregated about the station. The streets were illuminated with scores of additional lights and it was touching to observe the reverence with which all regarded the bell."

Mr. Elliott scouted the idea that any harm could come to the bell.

Radcliffe German Club Plans Drama

Zimrock's "Puppinspiel," a three-act drama of the Faust cycle, will be presented by the Radcliffe German club early next month. There are eighteen roles in the play and the parts have already been assigned.

SEE AMERICA! TRY FOR DE LUXE TRIP

To help the "See America First" crusade, the Boston AMERICAN is going to give twenty-five representative New Englanders a chance to see the great West FREE, with all expenses paid.

Is that a good proposition?

It must be, judging by the enthusiasm with which AMERICAN readers have received it.

To most Americans, California is the land of enchantment, the land of dreams, the fairy land, the promised land.

Well, here is the opportunity ready-made for YOU to see these wonders for yourself or, if you prefer, to assist some friend to go there. The details are printed elsewhere in this paper.

"FRAMERS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.A." NO. 4

Gouveneur Morris—"Father of the Penny"

AMONG all the framers of the Constitution of the United States none were more adept at constructive statesmanship than the "father of the American decimal system" and originator of the copper cent. The finish, style and arrangement of the Constitution fairly belong to the brilliant and eloquent Morris. From his youth to the hour of his death he was a devoted and dauntless worker for American progress. His unrivaled ability as an orator was known throughout Europe, and his funeral orations on Washington, Clinton and Hamilton are treasured American classics. Gouveneur Morris was an indomitable supporter of the Louisiana Purchase. He it was who rescued LaFayette from prison walls and aided him from his private purse. Personally he was very handsome; his nature was impulsive, but his heart was warm and generous. He loved society, and his hospitality was famous. All his life he drank the creative brews of malt and hops, and who will dare say that it weakened his will power or detracted from his success, his fame, his glory and his might? It was upon the tenets of the Constitution of the U.S.A. that Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago founded their great institution. During these 58 years they have daily brewed from the finest barley and hops beers famous for being alive with natural force and nutriment. Their great brand BUDWEISER, because of its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, exceeds the sales of any other bottled beer by millions of bottles. BUDWEISER'S popularity grows daily, and 7500 people are daily employed to keep pace with the public demand.

Five Members Out of Eleven Make an "Unanimous" Report

The Action of Certain Men on the Ways and Means Committee in the Matter of the Telephone Investigation Is a Good Sample of Republican Machine Politics

The Republican organization is continuing to give evidence of the kind of politics which may be expected of that organization if it should be given complete control of the State.

This year Governor Walsh recommended an investigation into the telephone conditions. No such general State investigation has been held in years, and there is a feeling among business men and telephone users generally that some knowledge of conditions are necessary. The recent investigation of the telephone charges in New York city resulted in a reduction within a few weeks of these charges by more than three million dollars a year to the users of telephones in that city.

The Public Service Commission, to whom was transferred the control of the Telephone Company, also recommended such an investigation and asked for an appropriation with which to make it. THE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS, TO WHOM, AS A MATTER OF FORM, WAS REFERRED THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR AND THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION FOR THIS INQUIRY, REPORTED THAT THE COMMITTEE HAS UNANIMOUSLY DECIDED THAT THE APPROPRIATION OUGHT NOT TO BE MADE.

This result was so surprising that an investigation was immediately made by certain curious people into the action of this committee. These facts were then revealed:

The vote was taken when only seven of the committee were present. Of those seven six were Republicans and one was a Democrat. The Democrat and one Republican voted to pass the appropriation. A further inquiry among the other four members of the committee who were not present brings forth the information that three of these favor the appropriation. The attitude of Mr. Joseph E. Warner of Taunton is not yet known.

Thus it appears that this alleged UNANIMOUS report has, out of eleven members, the vote of only five; that five others are in favor of appropriating the money necessary for this telephone inquiry and that the opinion of the remaining member is not known.

As if this were not quite bad enough, some gayety is added to the conduct of these gentlemen who are trying to prevent a telephone inquiry by the arguments which they made against it.

First, they say that the Public Service Commission has money enough to make the inquiry, although the Public Service Commission says it has not sufficient money and asks for the very moderate sum of $15,000. Their second and most extraordinary argument is that an investigation would be quite useless because these corporations OFTEN KEEP TWO SETS OF BOOKS AND THERE WOULD BE NO POSSIBILITY OF ELICITING THE TRUTH UNDER SUCH CIRCUMSTANCES.

This last argument ought to become a classic illustration of the desperation and intelligence of those who seek to serve such corporations. The representatives of the Telephone Company must blush in the dark at the thought of their brilliant friends in the Legislature.

The Voracious Gentlemen of the Hampden Railroad

The attempt to foist the Hampden Railroad steal upon the poor old Boston & Maine Railroad in the bill submitted by the Public Service Commission was bad enough; but the section of the Railroad Committee's bill dealing with the Hampden is even WORSE.

By the Public Service Commission's bill the evil of the Hampden's proposed connection with the Boston & Maine was mitigated somewhat by the provision that the payment for the Hampden should be in the stock of the Boston & Maine and should not be a fixed charge upon the unfortunate and bankrupt railroad, and it also fixed the aggregate amount of stock which could be paid for the road within the amount which the Public Service Commission found was legitimately expended in the construction of the Hampden road. This was three million, three hundred thousand dollars. It was scandalously in excess of the amount which should have been allowed, but still it was less than the amount originally claimed.

Now comes the Railroad Committee with a bill which provides that the Boston & Maine may acquire this Hampden road, useless to the Boston & Maine and costing four times as much as the average railroad in the State, and shall ASSUME ITS INDEBTEDNESS, which might be an amount greatly in excess of the three million, three hundred thousand dollars which the Public Service Commission allowed the Hampden Railroad.

This bill further provides that the Boston & Maine shall pay for the Hampden in preferred stock, which shall not be more than the Public Service Commission has found the road cost, less the amount of Hampden indebtedness the Boston & Maine assumes.

This provision thus violates the cardinal object of the plan for the reorganization of the Boston & Maine, which is to reduce its fixed charges, and takes away whatever mitigating features the Public Service Commission provision contained.

These voracious gentlemen of the Hampden Railroad seem to be determined to make a very bad matter very much worse.

How Woman May Regain Her Identity

By ELBERT HUBBARD

REFORMS never come as a result of sentimental agitation.

However, reforms begin in that way, because feeling was developed before thinking.

A statement of facts makes an appeal to the understanding.

If action follows, the result is stable, reliable, persistent.

The appeal that sentiment makes is to feeling. The action resulting from an emotion is often violent, its energy going off in unharnessed exhaust.

From its nature, it must be temporary, spasmodic, incoherent.

Resolutions made when fever runs high are usually not wise ones, and they are rarely kept.

* * *

The normal pulse gives reason an opportunity to act. The light of the morning sun illumines a proposition better than any artificial ray.

For example: A shoemaker in the Duma at an opportune time made a statement concerning the cost in Russia of a year's consumption of vodka, and showed how much bread the money would buy.

The calm statement did what no amount of sentiment had ever been able to do.

The great nation of Russia abolished the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. And this occurred in a country where to the inquiry, "What is the greatest stream in Russia?" the answer was, "The Vodka."

England is now studying the strong drink problem from an economic standpoint.

Weeping wives, children and mothers, eloquent orators for many decades have spent their sentiment in vain.

The tears irritated, the eloquence provoked.

But when men used reason and saw the economic waste involved they reformed it altogether.

These statements are made here as constructive proof that the basis of our enduring activities is economic.

People of the twentieth century think in terms of money.

* * *

Our respect for a nation is founded on its economic ability.

The nation may have given to us beautiful painting, music, literature, sentiment, eloquence, but unless it is financially strong it is not considered a peer with the first nations.

A nation must have within itself the means to earn its own living and have a bank account if we consider it responsible.

The same is true of an individual.

No one asks advice of a dependent, a beggar, an incompetent, a defective.

No one seriously asks advice of a woman whose only claim for recognition is beauty, no matter how beautiful she may be.

When we want what we call vital help we ask for it of a person who has had experience in economics.

This is natural and primitive, because our primal want is the hunger want.

Poets, painters, priests, musicians, soldiers, lovely ladies of high degree, have no substantial civic or economic value.

We ask wisdom from "a man of affairs," a man who can earn his own living, and more.

The supreme power of the world today, that which supersedes all other power, is a wealth power.

This statement does not have to be proved. It is axiomatic.

The poor men whose philosophy has influenced the world have been a long time dead.

* * *

As to woman, no matter what dignified experience, or how wise a woman may be, if she is without independent property she is not economically independent, her influence is limited to the walls of her own home.

And her influence in her own home is largely one of sentiment.

The basis of individualism is economic independence.

As proof note the popular attitude toward a woman who has recently fallen heir to a large fortune. Discoveries of hitherto hidden values are immediately made.

She becomes a woman of power, although she has earned none of this money.

A widow, if through her bereavement she has fallen heir to property, assumes an individualism, an entity, an identity which was never hers when she was wife.

This new importance is wholly on account of her economic entity.

The property which a woman had of her own before marriage became the husband's to manipulate and control after marriage.

By marriage a woman has lost her identity when the "magic words" are spoken.

Woman then ceases to be femme sole and becomes femme covert.

The advantages of matrimony for a woman should be many. Love, companionship, responsibility, sharing intimately the life and all it brings of another life, should mean enlarged life.

More than that, she more than shares the lives of her children. She anticipates their future, gives herself to their development. She is interested in all their interests. There is no phase of their life but that she shares.

All these should be inducements to marriage.

Married women do not usually realize this anticipated, enlarged life because of their economic dependence.

The first loss is identity, and concomitant with that is the loss of individualism.

The only reason for giving specific names in families is for their identity.

Unfortunately, "Mrs. John Smith" may not be identification for but one individual only, and at best it would be only as one of Mr. John Smith's acquisitions.

The fundamental desire of every entity is to maintain that entity.

The simplest cell and the highest organism have this desire in common.

A woman who realizes her individuality must have pride in that individuality, and she must have desire to maintain her entity.

Nature implants this desire in all life for her own purposes—that this life may have perpetuity.

* * *

What is of the most importance to woman today?

It may be "votes for women." But "votes for women" is not an end; it is only a means.

Underneath and beyond all other needs that women have today is the need for economic independence. This need is primal, fundamental.

It is necessary for woman's development.

It is necessary for woman's de-experiences which make for character building.

It is necessary for soul experiences.

It is necessary in maintaining her entity, her identity, her self-respect, her economic freedom.

PEACE SHOULD NOT COME

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, Star Company.

PEACE should not come along this foul earth way—
Peace should not come, until we cleanse the path.
God waited for us; now in awful wrath
He pours the blood of men out day by day
To purify the highroad for her feet.
Why, what would Peace do, in a world where hearts
Are filled with thoughts like poison pointed darts?
It were not meet, surely it were not meet,
For Peace to come, and with her white robes hide
These industries of death—these guns and swords—
These uniformed, hate-filled, destructive hordes—
These hideous things, that are each nation's pride.
So long as men believe in armed might
Let arms be brandished. Let not Peace be sought
Until the race-heart empties out all thought
Of blows and blood, as arguments for Right.
The world has never had enough of war,
Else war were not. Now let the monster stand,
Until he slays himself with his own hand;
Though no man knows what he is fighting for.
Then in the place were wicked cannon stood
Let Peace erect her shrine of Brotherhood.

Adventures in Forgetting

By HELEN RING ROBINSON,
Woman Senator in Colorado.

PERIPATETIC professors with patent memory systems were accustomed objects in the landscape when I was a young girl and lived in New England.

I have forgotten just how the Professor whose class I joined taught me to remember. But his system must have been based on the association of ideas, as witness this parody of it, prepared by a member of our class as a first aid in recalling that another member, named Gale, was blind:

"We are to remember," ran the parody, "that Mr. Gale is blind by bringing together these closely related facts. To wit: A gale is a wind, a wind is a breeze, a breeze is a zephyr, a zephyr is a yarn, a yarn is a tale, a tale is an appendage, an appendage is an attachment, an attachment is love — and love is blind."

There are times when I wish that Professor of Memory had been able to do more for me, so that the facts which I marshal laboriously into the front door of my mind would not so speedily scuttle out of the back door. Yet none the less, I find cause for this gladness that, though my memory is nothing to boast of, I yet may find compensation in my happy gift of forgetting.

* * *

All things considered, our truest benefactors are not those who would show us how to remember the things we forget but rather those who can teach us how to forget some of the things we remember.

To forget old wrongs. Those who have injured us have done their worst. It is over. But every time we recall such an injury, and recalling it feel embittered, we are living that wrong over again and so we are doing our own "worst" ourselves. There are those who will tell you that such conduct is a sin. I do not go so far. I merely say it is a mistake. And a mistake is more foolish than a sin—since there are no compensations.

To forget old sorrows, letting them slip away from us as snows in the Springtime slide down the mountainside, leaving the frozen earth to warm itself in the sun and to blossom again in flowers.

Griefs come to all of us, if we live long enough, and we must bow before them. But to cherish and memorise the sorrow, as some do, is to carry life's flag perpetually at half-mast.

* * *

To forget old humiliations. These are the hardest of all to forget. These are the memories which cling to us like burrs. We should, therefore, make special efforts to brush them away from our lives, letting the retreating days carry them from us as waves sweep wastings from the shore.

To forget old regrets. Ghost-dances are always debilitating. Many of us in vainly regretting lost opportunities squander energy enough—if it were directed toward the future, instead of the past—to carry us forward in long swinging strides, to hazards of splendid new fortune.

And there are other matters we may well learn to forget. It may be our age. It may be the jingling of our money. It may be theology. It may be—ourselves.

There is a wide range in this human life of ours for adventures in forgetting.

But there is one province we should not enter. For we must never forget our dreams.

QUEEN SUMMER

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

THE Summer is coming
With piping and drumming
And courtiers and pages to marshal her train.
The ocean waves breaking,
The sands, thirst a-slaking,
All welcome the queen who is nearing again.

The blue sky is smiling,
The sun's heat beguiling,
While tree tops are tossing their pennons of green;
And Spring coaxes flowers
In hedges and bowers
To join in the chorus, "All hail to the Queen!"

A bridesmaid is Springtime
Of first flutt'ring wing time,
She dresses the earth in its loveliest gown;
While sunshine and shadow
In hillside and meadow
Of gold and of sapphire mold Summer her crown.

Contested Elections—A Letter from Francis J. Horgan

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I note the extraordinary epistle of George Holden Tinkham, published in your paper on April 15. Its very beginning is remarkable, especially since he has not yet taken his oath or seat. The suggestion of the amendment to the United States laws and to the rules of the House of Representatives governing contested election cases would come with better grace from one who had no contest to wage over his seat. The merits of the present law on contested election cases seem to have appealed to Congress before the light of George Holden Tinkham's intelligence began to illuminate the country. Nor can he establish himself as the member from the Eleventh Massachusetts Congressional District by any deliberate misrepresentation of his case in a daily newspaper. It would be wiser for him to preserve silence until after Congress has acted in his regard. His insinuations about my motives in contesting his seat are ridiculous.

If, however, he really wishes the public to learn about much concerning his unfitness for the seat, which was suppressed at the public hearings, but which was reserved for use in case of necessity, he has merely to intimate the desire, and it will be gratified.

Respectfully,
FRANCIS J. HORGAN,
Contestant, Eleventh Massachusetts
Congressional District.
No. 352 Arborway, Jamaica Plain.
